HEAVY RAINS didn't stop the Rodeo Parade in Georgetown Thursday. More than 55 entries and 20 or more horse riders braved the weather anyway. (Above) This rider, although soaking wet, rode the entire course of the parade. (Left) Kirsten (r) and Erika Peterson ride the first place hometown float entered by the Flower Nook. The girls, daughters of Dr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Peterson, are the granddaughters of Lillian Peterson, owner of the Flower Nook. (See more pictures page 6).

It was a wet and rainy day in Georgetown Thursday but, despite the inclement weather conditions, many area residents lined the sidewalks huddling under awnings, to view the 34th Annual Williamson County Sheriff's Posse Parade.

A total of 57 units were lined up in the parade, excluding more than 20 bicycle and horse riders, and they completed the parade route in a drizzling rain.

"I was really very pleased with the parade," Chamber of Commerce manager L. L. Longley said, "especially with the hometown parade entries and the spectators."

First and second place ribbons were awarded parade entrants in six categories. The first place ribbon in the "Special" category was awarded to the Smithville Chamber of Commerce and the second place ribbon was given to Taylor.

The float from the Gonzales Chamber of Commerce was named the "Best Out of Town Float" and the Austin Aqua-Festival placed second.

The Flower Nook took first place honors and the Georgetown Chamber of Commerce placed second in the "Best Hometown Float" division.

The Brown County Sheriff's Posse was named the "Best Riding Unit" and Travis County Sheriff's Posse was awarded the red ribbon.

Dean Elliot placed first and Russell Elliot

placed second in the "Best Dressed Cowboy."

In the "Best Dressed Cowgirl" competition, first place was given to Dina Elliot and second place went to June Elliot.

JoAnn Schneider placed first, Connie Schneider placed second and Nancy Schneider placed third in the "Best Decorated Bicycle" division.

A concert, present by the Georgetown Community Band under the direction of Dr. George Nelson, was cut short when a shower dampened the spirits (and the sheet music) of the musicians. The band did perform, however, for about 30 minutes and more than a hundred persons lined the streets and the courthouse lawn to listen.

The Gonzales Gunfighters were unable to make the Western Week festivities as scheduled, but one member, Rick Dennis, of the group along with Georgetown resident L. A. Rutledge held several shootouts during the day. Shortly after lunch the two bandits robbed Gellman's, taking a woman as hostage, and about 4 p.m. the bandits stirred up trouble by robbing Georgetown Savings and Loan.

Mud and rain didn't stop the real cowboys either — the rodeo went as scheduled, with only slightly less than an average Thursday night attendance.

The rodeo cowboys also wrestled steers and rode broncs Friday night and the climaxing evening of rodeo action was to have begun at 8 p.m. Saturday.

SU nets over $900,000 from '76 Brown Challenge

The Brown Foundation, Inc., of Houston, has awarded $912,876 — $296,642 more than expected — to Southwestern University as the result of the first year of the Brown

Challenge, University President Durwood Fleming announced this week.

The Brown Foundation noted that constituents of the University had exceeded the first year goal of $575,000 by $268,642, and agreed to match that additional amount on a one-to-one basis.

SOUTHWESTERN ALUMNI also earned an additional $123,000 on special incentive awards to bring the total gift from the Brown Foundation to $912,876 for the first year.

The Brown Challenge is a 10-year program offered by the Brown Foundation to give Southwestern almost $11 million for fixed endowment if the school's constituency contributes $8.4 million for operational funds.

Southwestern's trustees, alumni, parents, students, and other supporters responded by far exceeding that first year goal as they gave $999,031.05. (Continued on page 12)

the passing glance

By Don Scarbrough

Baseball's not my game but, even so, I would like to be around when the Houston Astros and the Texas Rangers meet in the World Series. Then, of course, I would enjoy seeing the Dallas Cowboys collide with the Houston Oilers in the Superbowl.

I would also appreciate watching the Georgetown Eagles win the state AAA football championship before my 65th birthday and, Coach Les Johnson, that doesn't give you a lot more time. Am I being a little greedy?

HAVE YOU NOTICED how some people are never in a hurry, no matter how much business they are tackling? State Senator Bill Patman, for instance. Bill has a big part of Texas to represent, yet he always has time to go wherever he's invited and is always among the last to leave. "Buster" Compton is another, so are Thatcher and Genevieve Atkin, and Dr. Durwood Fleming. There are others, of course, but these come to mind. I wish I had the gift. Seems I am always saying, "This is delightful, but I gotta go."

Brushy Bend Park

Subdivision moves to incorporate

Representing 22 petitioners who are among about 100 families living in the Brushy Bend Park, M. O. Moreland said that the main reason the property owners want to incorporate their community is "to maintain our present lifestyle."

"We are interested in a large municipal government," Moreland said, "so we have filed the necessary petitions to hold an election to incorporate."

Brushy Bend Park is a 370-acre development on County Road 174, about four miles west of Round Rock. "There are about 260 residents," Moreland estimated, "and about 110 families."

Moreland, who is acting as a representative for the petitioners said, "We like what we have here and we want to choose our form of government."

He explained that the petitioners were asking for a mayor-commissioner type of government rather than the municipal form because "it's easier."

The election of a mayor and two commissioners will be on the same ballot as the incorporation issue and the Brushy Bend Park residents will be asked to vote August 13.

The polls will be set up at the residence of Silas W. Holt at 1905 Brushy Bend Drive and will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Candidates for the offices of mayor and commissioners have until July 13, 30 days before the election, to file an application to have their name placed on the ballot with the county clerk in Georgetown.

The mayor and the commissioners, if elected, shall serve until the first Saturday in April, 1978.

Silas W. Holt has been appointed presiding judge for the election and Frederick W. Mulloy has been appointed alternate presiding judge. Gerry G. Gabehart and Nancy J. Phillips will serve as election clerks.

The Brushy Bend Park community is being developed by Brushy Bend Properties, Inc. and the developer is N. G. Whitlow of Round Rock.

The area is estimated at being 70 to 80 percent developed at this time, Moreland said.

Moreland said that he and seven other committee members have contacted almost all the residents in the community encouraging the incorporation.

3 jury members chosen in Muniz murder trial

Questioning of prospective jury members for the Muniz capital murder trial continued all week, but only three men had been selected for jury duty by Friday afternoon.

18 prospective jurors had been questioned individually by the district attorney and defense attorney since Tuesday morning, but 15 of them were disqualified.

Jury selection is considered critical to the outcome of the trial, and selecting the 12 persons to serve on the jury will probably take most of next week.

Muniz is accused of the rape and murder of a Southwestern University coed in Georgetown last December.

Prospective jurors are being called from a list of 122 names and questioned on the witness stand by District Attorney Ed Walsh and Defense Attorney Ruben Sandoval.

Both Walsh and Sandoval have 15 automatic strikes, that is they can have 15 prospective jurors disqualified without giving any reasons.

So far, the state has used 2 strikes and the defense attorney has used 3.

Ten prospective jurors have been disqualified by District Judge William S. Lott. Most of those disqualified by the court have been because in the judge's opinion that person had already formed an opinion of the case.

After all 12 members are picked, Judge Lott will sequester the jury.

They will be kept together at county expense and guarded at all times by a Sheriff's Deputy.

They will not be allowed to talk to anyone except through a bailiff, to talk on the telephone, watch news programs on TV or read newspaper accounts of the trial.

A sentence of either life imprisonment or death is mandatory if a defendant is found guilty in a capital murder case.

Muniz was arrested two days after the Southwestern University coed's body was discovered December 22 on the banks of the San Gabriel River.

Preliminary autopsy reports indicated that the woman died of a fractured skull in the course of rape.

The trial will begin as soon as a jury is picked.

Week's news in a nutshell

After several weeks of hearing rumors of wrongdoing done by the Round Rock Police Department, Police Chief Kenny Langston called a meeting for the public to voice complaints. Nobody showed up to complain.

Georgetown has Western Week and Round Rock has Frontier Days — and now Cedar Park is making plans for their own first annual Cedar Choppers Festival on Labor Day Weekend.

Medical X-ray. Further research tends further to indict X-ray as a potential hazard.

Responsible radiologists who are able to study these reports objectively and evaluate them in perspective are frequently, quite properly, resentful of the news media tendency to synopsise research with a hit-and-run sentence or two which add up to "medical X-ray is dangerous."

They know that too much of almost anything is dangerous.

They know that how much is too much X-ray has not been established.

They know that this diagnostic and treatment tool must be handled with respect.

And that it must be used when it is "the lesser of evils" — a calculated risk accepted in exchange for a known benefit.

Now having said that, let's examine the newest research and recommendations relating to X-ray.

At long last, albeit reluctantly, the National Cancer Institute has decided it is not a good idea for women routinely to receive X-ray examination for breast cancer.

Especially, the NCI now says, women under 50 should not casually subject themselves to these examinations. X-radiation is cumulative. That means it "builds up" in the human body over the years, with each additional exposure adding to the odds — that X-ray examination for cancer might itself cause cancer.

So now the NCI decides that, for younger women especially, the risks outweigh the benefits.

This next will be challenged but deserves to be considered.

Diagnosticians, with a tremendous investment in X-ray, might be inclined to overuse it to pay for it.

Six percent of all health care expenditures in the United States are for diagnostic X-ray examinations — and that number has been increasing 8 percent per year.

The American Medical Assn., which must also consider the radiologists, has been reluctant to take an official position.

However, the June issue of the AMA Journal included a report that diagnostic X-rays performed on pregnant women can cause genetic damage to their babies and increase the risk of certain childhood diseases — including leukemia.

These Roswell Park scientists say that even "low doses" of radiation can cause genetic damage to the offspring.

And they are pretty definite about it, using such dogmatic phrases as "clear prima facie evidence" and "a 50-fold increase in the risk of leukemia."

And this article says, "These findings refute a dogma that is often cited by radiologists who claim that diagnostic radiation is harmless."

If it's not harmless.

The system of X-ray can be blamed largely on the malpractice lawsuit threat. Now, however, with these new public warnings, the physician who recommends X-ray may be liable.

So, because he is often "durned if he does and durned if he doesn't," it behooves the patient himself to decline X-ray exposure except where it is urgently recommended.

Got to organize

With growing anger we've been watching those TV reports on the farming situation in this country.

Unless our farmers get together in some sort of national combine to control the number of acres they plant in such crops as wheat, soybeans, cotton and grains they are going to be bankrupt by all the greedy guys between them and their markets.

IF THE FARMERS would organize, they could quickly stabilize prices on their produce, they would have enough profit to become their own truckers and processors. They would have a fair amount of profit at the end of every year.

Until they do this, farming will remain a hazardous occupation, offering little incentive to the young, bright people who might be expected to follow their parents' footsteps and stay on the farm.

Ditto for the ranchers.

A learning process

Newspaper publishers, if they are any good at all, never stop learning.

They learn from each other to a great extent, by observing, experimenting, changing.

A COUPLE OF WEEKS AGO, for instance, we changed our format on obituaries — going from single-column to double-column width. We think the wider column is more easily noticed and read, and better reflects the importance we feel for these reports.

One of our sports writers — young Diamond Benningfield — has a flair for makeup and design. We turn him loose on the sports section which has been expanded to a double-page in most of our issues. He also designed the new headings for our editorial and sports pages and would like to come up with new ones for our community correspondents, although we do like them as they are.

We learn from watching the other papers. Each week we leaf through our exchanges, comparing and searching. On occasions we pick up ideas on reporting, editorials and advertising.

THIS WEEK TWO MEMBERS of the staff attended the Texas Press Association meeting in Galveston, a fun thing with a lot of listening and

Message from U.S. farm wives

By John D. Moorhead

Chicago
In addition to stiff-stemmed winter wheat now about thigh high, the soil of the plains states west of here is nurturing a growing political force: farmers' wives.

Over the last six to nine months, more than 8,000 farm women have joined newly formed groups. Their representatives have journeyed to Washington to get their message to Congress and letter and telephone campaigns have been launched.

"We have to be willing to fight for what we believe is a good way of life," says Karen Smith of Burlington, Colorado, who organized Partners in Action for Agriculture (PAA). "The family farm is not only important to us but to the whole country."

PAA began with a letter she wrote to the Burlington Record last October and now has chapters in Colorado, Kansas, and Oklahoma.

PAA and the other new farm women's groups generally see their goal in educational terms. "We stay away from policy-making," says Mrs. Smith. "We want to present the case for the family farm in as calm, dignified, and intelligent a way as possible. Any time you get into policy questions, you start getting conflict."

"We started out by responding to editorials in farm journals that said everything was just fine down on the farm," explains Kathryn Hiesel of South Haven, Kansas. "We didn't feel they [the editorial writers] were being realistic about what was really happening — the falling price of wheat and the increasing crop input costs."

That was the beginning of Concerned

Farm Wives, which had its birth at a baby shower last October. "Three gals were sitting around complaining about the same things they had complained about for the last three years. We decided maybe we should complain to somebody besides ourselves..." They did, and the organization "like the wonderful little amoeba, just started growing," Mrs. Hiesel recalls.

There now are CFW chapters in Colorado, Oklahoma, Kansas, and Nebraska, with a total membership of 1,500 to 2,000.

Another group, Women Involved In Farm Economics (WIFE) had its first meeting Dec. 6, 1976, with nine women present. Since then, its membership has swelled to 5,000 with chapters in 10 states, according to Joan O'Connell of Sydney, Nebraska, one of the original organizers.

"It grew just like a prairie fire," says Mrs. O'Connell, who explains that the group's goal is to "educate consumers that farmers cannot produce their products at a loss."

She contends that "farmers are depicted as the bogey man on farm prices, but it is just not true. In 1976, the average cost to raise a bushel of wheat in the Nebraska panhandle was $3.44 and this year it is higher. . . . The current wheat price is $1.71 per bushel. We feel we are subsidizing other people's affluent life-style."

She says conditions where farmers lose money on the wheat they sell sap their confidence as well as their capital.

"We want to make it possible for the family farm to continue," says Mildred Constable of Delphos, Kansas, one of the organizers of Women Fighting for the Family Farm. "We are going broke."

These groups generally seek the cooperation of the nation's major farm organizations. However, groups like the American Farm Bureau Federation, the National Farmers Union, the National Farmers Organization, and the Grange have specific policies they would like to see pursued — and these policies differ significantly.

Florence Thomas of the Farm Bureau says members of that organization should support its platform. To the new women's groups, she says with a smile: "You join us; we are not going to join you."

Swim party planned for local 4-Hers

The Georgetown 4-H leaders are hosting a swimming and watermelon party June 30 from 5 to 8 p.m. at the city pool for the Georgetown 4-H Club members.

4-Hers should bring their completed 4-H record book, which is due on July 1, to the party.

Club members will be on hand to sign the national report forms at the party.

Pretreat heavily soiled areas and greasy stains in clothing, then use warm wash temperatures and save energy costs. This laundry method is as effective as hot-water washing, says Mrs. Becky Culp, area clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Horticulture Notes

By John N. Cooper

The second generation pecan nut casebearer moths are emerging. The first generation was a few days earlier than usual this year. Consequently, the second generation got off to an early start. The second generation spray is usually applied around July 1. However since the first generation spray was applied perhaps 2 or 3 days earlier than usual an application may be necessary around June 27-30 for the second generation.

The larvae that hatched from eggs in mid-May burrowed inside of nutlets. Many larvae destroyed entire clusters of nutlets. The signs of their damage still linger, with some of the hollow dried nutlets still clinging to the stems by the frass and webbing they produce while feeding.

AFTER FEEDING in the nutlets for a time the casebearer pupates inside the nutlets and moths emerge 42 to 45 days following the first generation emergence. The first generation peak emergence was around May 17 in Georgetown. The southern areas of Williamson County were a day or two earlier. Generally spraying began a little early for optimum first generation casebearer control this year. The first generation egg-lay was in a short length of time and should have provided good prospects for effective control with one insecticide application. However, in general spraying began a little early for optimum control. Some larvae emerged after the poison residual was lost. Consequently the second generation moths from the larvae that escaped should be watched closely for egg-laying.

The second generation moths lay the tiny white eggs in the grooves along the side of the nuts. Most often they are laid toward the tip end but may be at any point along the grooves of the shuck. When first laid the eggs are white, just smaller than a pin head. By the second day they develop pink dots that spread this color throughout the developing egg. By the fourth day the egg is a pinkish red and by the fifth day has hatched. The hatching larvae are white to pink when young but later develop an olive gray to green color and grow to about 1/4 inch long.

Due to the size of the nuts at this state the larvae will only damage one or two nuts. Most of the nutlet shedding from faulty pollination, or stress on the tree's food reserves has already occurred. The remaining nuts have a good chance of developing into mature pecans. Loss of nuts at this stage then will not prevent further nut drop. Any nut loss will sacrifice yield at this point.

A FEW EGGS have been observed in Georgetown. Some early laying can be expected to occur from now until egg laying is completed in early July. The early lay is insignificant. However as the numbers increase to 3 or 4 eggs per 100 nutlets you have an economic population. Once the first few larvae emerge and begin to feed you should spray.

A third generation may occur in damaging proportions but usually the shells have hardened and the larvae cannot penetrate the shell. However shuck damage may result in nuts dropping and production of hollow nuts. This generation sometimes requires control.

For recommendations of chemicals to use consult your local pesticide dealer or the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Average price of regular gas passes 60 cents per gallon

The average price of regular gasoline in Texas has passed the 60-cent-per-gallon level, and further price increases are coming at many service stations before the July Fourth Weekend.

A survey of 231 service stations conducted by the American Automobile Association, Texas Division, revealed average gasoline prices per gallon of 60.2 for regular, 63.0 for unleaded and 64.6 for premium.

While these prices represent an increase of only about one-half cent per gallon over the prices revealed by AAA's survey just before the Memorial Day Weekend ($9.8 for regular, 62.7 for unleaded and 64.4 for premium), many station operators told AAA that their prices would be going up 1 to 2 cents per gallon around July 1.

A comparison of AAA's study with one made at the same time last year shows that the average price of regular gas has risen 3.9 cents a gallon in the past year. Unleaded fuel averages 4.7 cents a gallon more, and premium has gone up 4.2 cents a gallon.

Motorists should have few problems finding an open station during the July Fourth Weekend. All but one of the 231 stations surveyed will be open on Saturday, while 72 percent will be open on Sunday and 85 percent on Monday.

Service stations in College Station, Fort Worth and McAllen tied for the lowest-priced gasoline found anywhere in the state by the survey — 51.9 cents per gallon for regular. A station in Fort Stockton reported the highest price 72.6 cents a gallon for premium.

The survey indicated that motorists who pump their own gas can save an average of 4.3 cents per gallon off the full-service price of fuel.

AUSTIN — Gov. Dolph Briscoe cleared his desk of legislation passed during the regular session and announced he will call lawmakers back to work July 11.

Briscoe settled on the early July date for a special session on the complex issue of public school finance which evaded all earlier efforts at solution.

"I think it should be possible to accomplish the work of the session in a week to 10 days," Briscoe said. "There is enough agreement that we should be able to work out a good school finance bill in a relatively short period of time. . . . I am giving everybody an opportunity to plan around the (July 11) date."

House Speaker Bill Clayton and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby have indicated they favor the legislature's early passage of something similar to the conference committee report which died on final night of the regular session. The bill provided about $900 million in additional school aid.

Briscoe saved some of the most important bills until last. Among the last measures approved were consolidation of three major state water agencies, the "sunset bill" providing for phase-out of outmoded state agencies and the new medical malpractice act.

Crime Unpredictable

Total "index" crime doubled during the last four years, and may do so again 1977-1980.

City areas with 78 per cent of the population reported 78 per cent of the crime, but the violent crime rate is higher in rural areas.

The C.J.D. study also revealed these findings—

—Last year, a quarter billion dollars worth of property was reported stolen in the state.

—The typical murder victim was 20-35 years old and a white male. The typical person arrested in murder cases was the same age and also white male.

—Average take in robberies was $440. About 41 per cent of Texas robberies are solved.

—Nearly 20 percent of the 187,182 burglaries were committed without need for force, and more than half were committed in daylight —the vast bulk in private residences.

Allowable Set

Texas Railroad Commission set the July oil production allowable — again at 100 per cent.

Commissioner Jim Langdon noted the U.S. is importing 38 per cent of the crude oil it needs, but said the nation could become self-sufficient if "willing to pay the price."

Langdon also proposed storage of synthetic oils, and said he will spell out his plan in writing.

Total nominations of Texas crude oil purchasers for July were 3,915,851 barrels a day, a decrease of 26,543 barrels from this month.

AG Opinions

Bulk of a Mexico State School investigative report is not available to legislators or the public since it deals with personal medical records, Atty. Gen. John Hill held.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

—A telephone company is authorized to lay buried telephone lines within the right-of-way of a county road without the approval of the commissioners court. However, the company must place its lines in such manner as not to inconvenience the public in use of public roads.

—A county has no present authority to enact land use regulations for flood-prone areas unless it qualifies for participation in the National Flood Insurance Program of June 30, 1970.

—Political subdivisions which are self insurers under the Workmen's Compensation laws are liable for the gross premium tax on insurers.

—A soil and water conservation district may deposit its funds in interest-bearing accounts in a state or national bank, but it may not purchase certificates of deposit. Nor may it deposit its funds in a savings and loan association.

Courts Speak

The U.S. Supreme Court ordered an indefinite stay of execution for James Paul Burns, condemned Texas murderer, pending his appeal to the state court. Burns' stay by a state court would have run out June 24.

Texas Water Development Board is monitoring cloud seeding operations in Castro, Swisher, Hale, Hockley, Lamb, Bailey, Farmer, Deaf Smith, Randall and Lubbock counties.

GRAND TOUR — Nearly 2,000 persons showed up for the 15th annual field day at the Stiles Farm Foundation in Thrall on Tuesday, many taking this tour of cotton and grain sorghum experiments in the fields. The 3,200 acre Stiles Farm is a demonstration farm operated by Texas A&M University for the Central Texas Blackland area. Interested farmers toured the new fish hatchery, examined a farm equipment display, asked questions of assembled agriculture experts, listened to a speech by House Speaker Bill Clayton and helped themselves to a barbecue dinner. Not a discouraging word was heard about the intermittent showers.

Area students Loose steer driven forcibly earn master's back to Rodeo Arena degree from UT

Two Williamson County students were among 465 University of Texas at Austin students to be awarded master's degrees at the close of the 1977 spring semester.

Gay Ronda Admire of Georgetown received a master of science degree in nursing.

Mary Pat O'Malley of Liberty Hill earned a master of arts degree.

Master's degree recipients were announced by Dr. Irwin C. Lieb, vice president and dean of graduate studies.

Festivities, fun, frivolity — all characterize Western Week.

But all is not "fun and games," as several stout-hearted folk attempted to subdue a 500 lb. steer last Thursday.

The Georgetown police department even got into the act.

The chain-of-events leading to forcibly subduing the rebellious rascal were as follows:

Officers Shirley and Loney were on routine patrol and observed Fire Chief Les Bunte, Bob Purl, and Curtis Anderson trying to corner and subdue the escapee from the rodeo stockyard.

According to Bunte,

"We'd returned from the dance when we saw this steer on the loose, and decided we'd better do something."

While attempting to corral the wiley beast, a patrol unit and Bob Clayton's vehicle tried to herd the husky steer back to the rodeo.

Initial attempts were not very successful and it was deemed necessary for Les Bunte (with assistance from Bob Purl, Officers Shirley and Loney, and Curtis Anderson) to bulldog the burly beast.

Unlike the old Rawhide series in which Frankie Lane sang "head em' up and move em' out," this animal was in no mood to be pushed — in no mood to be moved.

After a lengthy struggle the steer was brought to his knees and led forcefully to the rodeo arena.

Our congratulations to those who persevered — sorry that we don't have any ribbons to award. Just a verbal pat on the back.

Granger Navy fireman tours Philippines

Navy Fireman Apprentice Alvin D. Luckey, son of Mrs. Estella B. Fields of Granger, recently completed a seven-week goodwill cruise in the Western Pacific.

He is serving as a crewmember aboard the guided missile cruiser USS Oklahoma City, homeported in Yokosuka, Japan. The Oklahoma City is the flagship of the commander of the U. S. Seventh Fleet.

The Oklahoma City is serving a dual role as a goodwill ambassador and a combat ready unit of the Seventh Fleet.

He and his fellow Oklahoma City crewmembers, visited Manila and Subic Bay in the Republic of the Philippines and Kaohsiung, the Republic of China, in conjunction with the fleet's mission of maintaining American presence in the Western Pacific.

He and his shipmates donated their time to such civic action projects as repairing a local library, repainting a children's home, and participating in sporting events with local teams.

The Oklahoma City is 610 feet long and carries a crew of approximately 1,200 officers and enlisted men, in addition to more than 200 personnel of the Seventh Fleet staff. She is outfitted with guns, a surface-to-air missile launcher and a landing platform for light helicopters.

He joined the Navy in June 1975.

Taste Treats

By Oline Behrens

I guess when just two women get together or ten women, or more... whether it be Saigon, Timbuctoo, Zanaibar, or Hawaii... they eventually get around to talking their favorite recipes! And, such an easy, good recipe came out of a conversation recently at the airport in Hawaii.

Mary and Charles Forbes had a great two weeks trip to Hawaii and other points of interest nearby and on their return trip home at the airport in Hawaii Mary, quite by chance, landed a good, new easy recipe to share in Taste Treats.

As Mary was waiting to board the plane she overheard two ladies talking about a new, easy, good recipe one of them had just gotten and Mary eased over to them and said, "Oh, I'm always in search of easy recipes and I couldn't help but overhear your conversation, could you share your recipe with me?" And sure 'nough... Mary, not only getting a good recipe, found out that one of the ladies had attended Southwestern University and so had her husband and while in school here had known Ellagene Eanes Lott (Mrs. Bill Lott) — it's a small world after all, isn't it?

The Forbes had a simply marvelous trip and Charles has been sporting a handsome white and brown sport shirt he got on the Island.

Also visited with Brenda Grimm in the Beauty Shop last week and she and her husband Mike also recently returned from their vacation trip to Hawaii. They were gone about ten days and Brenda had a glowing account of Hawaii... it's the place to go, they all say! She brought back a crate of pineapple and had samples of it to taste at the shop last Thursday... Mohalo!

Hawaiian Butter Cup Tarts
Buy one package of Peanut Butter Cookie Roll (refrigerated)

1 package Reese's Peanut Butter Cups (miniature size, about 25-30 to package) (Candy wrapped in fluted brown paper and gold foil) - refrigerate so they will be firm to work with.

Cut the cookie dough in about 3/4 inch slices and then cut each slice in 4 pieces and then drop each small piece in a miniature muffin tin. Bake as per instructions on cookie package (about 8 min.) Just as soon as you take the muffin tins out of the oven — immediately pop one of the cold Reese's cups (sans the brown paper and the gold foil) into the center of the hot cookie muffins (be sure and push it down hard). The sides of the hot cookies sorta come up around the candy (it melts into cookie) and makes a tart. Top each tart with a toasted nut — almond, pecan, or if you could be so lucky — macadamia nuts (straight from Hawaii) or they can, for a price, be found at supermarkets.

Cool 5-6 minutes, then remove from tins with knife.

Mary says they freeze nicely and are good freshly baked or frozen. Charles prefers them frozen. There they are right in the freezer—ready to serve or take to a friend. Mary brought some by for grandsons Will and Wess and me to taste Tuesday morning! Yummie.

Mary also experimented and made bigger tarts in the big muffin tins, using the whole 3/4 inch slice and 2 Reese's Peanut Butter Cups in each one.

I can't wait to try them but time ran out plus 2 grandsons!

The easy way to do things this summer suits us all, I'm sure. ALOHA.

Georgetown man judges cattle in South America

Mr. and Mrs. LaRue Douglas of Georgetown have just returned from Colombia, South America, where Mr. Douglas was the Brahman Cattle Judge for the 19th Annual Fair and Livestock Exposition at Monteria, Colombia.

The couple spent several days in Monteria and Bogata as well as a visit to Panama on their return trip home.

Even though the Douglasses enjoyed their trip they were quoted as saying, "There is no place like home."

FUN WITH FUNDAMENTALS — Jim Mallon, Southwestern baseball coach, has been teaching younger players the fine points of the game for the past two weeks in a special baseball camp in San Gabriel Park. The boys were especially excited about this final day of practice because they heard a rumor that there was going to be a watermelon treat for them after the workout (there was).

Float fishermen

Hardy, innovative

Float fishermen are innovators. They have to be in order to catch any fish. Unlike lake anglers, the river fisherman is seldom in one spot long enough to work out a pattern and lure that is best for that particular place. So he experiments until the lucky combination of method and lure is discovered.

One of the most successful types of lures used by float fishermen seeking bass and panfish is the spinner. And while the usual weighted spinning lures work fine, a bucktail fly and spinner combo, similar to that used by flycasters, is a deadly lure for stream fishing. The spinner/bucktail can be adapted to spinning and spincasting tackle. The trick is to make the lure heavy enough to cast accurately, and also to descend in the water deep enough to tempt fish from beneath logs and rocks.

The current, and the speed of your boat floating downstream, play a part in how quickly the lure reaches the fish.

Again borrowing from the flyfisherman, you can add a strip of lead wire to the shaft of the spinner to increase the weight of the lure. Be careful to wind it on so that it will not impede the revolving blade.

If lead wire isn't handy, small split-shot can be substituted, although it must be pinched on the line ahead of the spinner.

A large, full-bodied bucktail fly is attached behind the spinner. Brown, black or grey with a touch of red showing are excellent colors.

Size depends upon whether you're after bass or panfish.

Steven Shepard returns a shot in his boy's singles match with Mike Carter Friday. Carter won the match 6-0, 6-3.

G'town girl loses twice in Lions' tennis finals

Diedra Zoerner defeated Allison Chapman of Georgetown 6-2, 7-5 Friday for the girl's 18 singles championship in the Lions' invitational tennis tournament.

Chapman then lost the finals of the girl's 16 singles division to Diane Welch 6-0, 6-0. She was to play Sandra Busby of Georgetown for second place either Friday afternoon or Saturday.

Clark Snell of Georgetown was to meet Brian Zoerner of Austin in the boy's 16 singles finals Saturday morning to complete the junior events.

Snell beat Brian Castaneda in the semifinals 6-0, 6-2, while Zoerner topped Tim Magness of Georgetown 2-6, 6-2, 6-4.

Adult matches were scheduled to begin Saturday, and continue through Sunday.

The second annual tournament, sponsored by the Evening Lions Club, is held to raise money for Lions Club service projects.

Money for the projects comes from the $5 per person per event entry fee. Trophies for the champions in all events were donated by Georgetown merchants.

Standout to play for Bucs

Eugenia Liberum, a basketball and track star from Thrall High School, has signed to play basketball at Southwestern this year.

Liberum, 6-1, was an all district guard for two years and placed third the last three years in the high jump in the state track meet.

SU Coach Glada Munt said that she will start working with Liberum on her shooting. "She's an outstanding athlete and we expect her to develop quickly," she said. "She'll be playing the post position and we expect her to add considerable strength to our inside game."

Two more players have indicated they will join Southwestern University's basketball team next season. Coach John Edwards announced this week.

Mark Carroll, an all-Central Texas selection from Westlake High School, and Tracy Davis, a junior college transfer from Alabama, have both announced intentions to enroll at Southwestern.

Carroll, a 6-2 guard who helped his team to a 19-7 record and second place in District 13AAAA last season, averaged 18 points and seven rebounds per game. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Carroll of 801 Canyon Creek, Austin.

Davis was the most valuable player and an all state selection in high school. A 6-4 forward, he started for the Lurleen B.

Wallace State Junior College team for two years and was a first team selection in the South Alabama Junior College Conference last season. He averaged 20 points and five rebounds per game.

Parade completes route during rain

UMBRELLAS DIDN'T HELP these girls, representing the Bastrop Chamber of Commerce, but, they continued to smile and wave to the crowd.

DRENCHED Eagle cheerleaders try to generate a little spirit, and probably a little warmth, in the soggy Thursday parade.

WHILE IT POURED on the parade, this very wet girl tried to escape some of the wet misery underneath a raincoat and hat.

AN INFLATED TOWER of colorful balloons rises above the Eagle band at the afternoon musical interlude.

Photos by Damond Benningfield

... While the band played

RODNEY KLETT, the high school band director, gets in on the music during a concert on the square Thursday afternoon. Jan Wakefield sits to Klett's left. The concert, which preceded the parade, was brought to a quick halt by the heavy rains.

THE THUNDERER was perhaps an indication of things to come. The lively Sousa march, selection of the band, preceded slightly louder thunder, lightning and heavy rains.

... and outlaws met their fate

BANDITS make a hasty getaway from the Georgetown Savings and Loan after a Thursday hold-up. But the outlaws, Rick Dennis (l) and Steve Benton, were unsuccessful in their break for freedom as lawmen gunned them down in Main St.

ANGHARAD REES co-stars as Demelza, one of the women in the stormy life of Poldark, the rebel-hero of the new PBS Masterpiece Theatre presentation airing Sundays (9-10 p.m., EDT).

An effort to grow up: TV's early years

by James Napier

We're a "plugged in" generation. The "wired city" impinges on and impacts our lives. The rapid advance in electronic communications has shrunk our world. Instantaneous communication renders us a part of "the global village."

It's hard to comprehend that change has come so suddenly and swiftly to our lives. Twenty-five years ago television was a mere infant in swaddling clothes, clumsily groping about, learning to take its first steps.

Today we take it all for granted. A flick of the switch—presto, instantaneous image. We expect it to be there. Our children rarely question how or why these electronic marvels came to be a part of their lives. Like the air we breathe, we feel its effects but know little of its origins.

The announcer on the old Lone Ranger program used to say "return with us now to those thrilling days of yester year as the Lone Ranger rides again."

For a moment we briefly flashback and grasp a brief glimpse of those early days of television, a remarkable contrast to the sophisticated, polished programs of today. In 1946, as World War II ended, television sets again went on sale. No longer did our national resources need to be converted to war use. The opening of the U.N. Security Council was televised. CBS and NBC plunged ahead with color TV demonstration—yes, as early as 1946!

The opening of Congress was televised for the first time in 1947. The Kraft Television Theater series began. Meanwhile the "go ahead" on color was nixed by the FCC until a superior system to the one CBS proposed was devised.

Philadelphia became a convention site because of television cable in 1948. This same year the FCC began the famous freeze on TV licenses saying no further applications would be accepted until channel allocation throughout the country had been thoroughly studied.

Those owning television sets in the few cities having stations were counting their blessings. Crowds flocked to store windows to gape at the flickering image with the same fascination as the world later viewed man's first strides on the moon.

An inauguration was telecast for the first time in 1949. Television stations, hard-pressed for programs, relied on old grade B movies, wrestling matches, and local live programming. A station in Oklahoma even resorted to focusing a camera on a goldfish bowl for several hours each morning.

Not exactly the kind of entertainment to set the pulse beating rapidly!

As 1950 dawned, television had captured the public's fancy. Radio was plunging in popularity. Many "big name" luminaries realized they faced a crucial decision: stick with radio and get washed out or plunge into television.

Among those who dived in: Milton Berle, Sid Caesar, Red Skelton, Jack Benny, Bob Hope, Burns & Allen.

Ed Sullivan began introducing new talent on his popular Toast of the Town.

Late 1951 the TODAY program with Dave Garroway started the morning for many Americans. Its intended purpose as envisioned by NBC executive Sylvester Weaver was to inform people about all the significant news that occurred while they slept. Since many stations didn't begin broadcasting until the afternoon hours, NBC thought Weaver's scheme bizarre and far-out. Weaver pushed and TODAY became as American as chemical apple pie.

In television cities, movie attendance dwindled drastically. A wave of theater closings resulted. Radio, in pitiful shape, was scouting about for some kind of format to survive. Specialized audience radio came into vogue (country & western, easy listening, all news). With the rise in record sales was the concurrent ascent of the disc jockey to "stardom level."

A DJ, playing or not playing a record, could make or break that song. Charges of payola and plugola became widespread. Payoffs to the disc jockey were rumored as commonplace occurrences.

The Federal Communications Commission lifted the freeze on new TV licenses in 1952 and a wave of applications came in, the first being granted to Lyndon Johnson's KTBC in Austin. The first educational station began the same year in Houston.

Hundreds of television stations rushed to reach the air. The FCC became inundated with floods of applicants. License applications were again being processed. A license was viewed by many as a legal means of printing money.

This was the year of Nixon's famous checkers speech in which he denied receiving politically-motivated gifts from anybody except—as he recalled—his wife Pat did receive a lovely dog that Trisha named Checkers and he wasn't about to give it back because it would break Trisha's heart. This speech, watched closely by Eisenhower, launched Nixon's political career into orbit. Ike decided Nixon was unjustly accused and kept him on the GOP ticket.

TV gave full scale coverage to Ike's inauguration in 1953. The merger of ABC and Paramount Theaters unleashed a flood of old movies which program-starved stations ran over and over.

I Love Lucy became a firmly established institution, changing the concept of live television. Once a program was shown live all potential for future profits were gone. Preserved on film, a program's

Young, beautiful Cheryl Ladd arrived in Los Angeles from Huron, S.D., seven years ago, and landed a job as a singing voice in the Hanna-Barbera cartoon series, "Josie and the Pussycats." Since then, she has racked up over 100 TV commercials and appeared in an impressive list of television series, including "Code R," "The Rookies," "Switch," "Ironside," "The Partridge Family," "Happy Days," "Police Woman," and the ABC Movie of the Week, "Satan's School for Girls." She also appeared in the feature films "Jamaica Reef" and "Marriage of a Young Stockbroker."

Her parents and most of her family still live in Huron where her father is an engineer with the Chicago Northwestern Railroad Co. She has brothers Brian, 18, and Seth, 8. Her older sister, Mary Ann, is married and has two sons, Billy Bob and John.

Cheryl has been married four years to actor David Alan Ladd, son of the late actor Alan Ladd and Sue Carol Ladd of Palm Springs, Calif. Cheryl and David are the parents of one child, Jordan Elizabeth Ladd, 2.

Cheryl, a natural blonde with blue-green eyes, began her career as Cheryl Stoppelmoor, her maiden name. As a youngster she studied voice and dancing, originally aspiring to a career in music. Encouraged by her father, she entertained

CHERYL LADD has been signed to the cast of "Charlie's Angels." Ms. Ladd will play Kris Munroe, younger sister of Jill Munroe, played by Ms. Fawcett-Majors. "Charlie's Angels," the highest rated new series of the 1976-77 season, airs on Wednesdays (10-11 p.m., EDT), but will move to a new time slot in the fall and will air on Wednesdays (9-10 p.m., EDT)

family and friends by singing, and playing guitar. As a teen-ager, she toured South Dakota with a local singing group, "The Music Shop." Through an appearance on "The Tonight Show" she attracted the attention of recording industry executives, later signing with Capitol Records.

The 5'4", 103 pound beauty (measurements: 35-23-34) loves physical activity, including tennis, gymnastics and scuba diving.

DOC -- Can you tell me something about Michael Gregory of the daytime soap opera General Hospital? Is he married? His birthdate? And where can I write to him? Patricia L. Johnson, Gulfport, Miss.

Michael Gregory, who plays the dauntless Dr. Webber, is still a bachelor. His birthday is November 26, but like most actors the year has been withheld from the date. Gregory hails from Brooklyn, N.Y., but later grew up in California. His professional career started as a stand-up comic, while he was studying for his degree in theatre arts at San Francisco State. He later served as a ski instructor for two years in the Army. Sprung from that chore he got roles in such movies as "Ricco," "Hey Good Looking" and "Two Minute Warning." He has done numerous appearances on TV as well. He's a black belt in karate and is a trained hypnotist. He is also interested in mind development -- both scientific and occult. That should hold you for a while.

Ken Olfson: From A Raisin to A Star

By Winifred Elze

For Ken Olfson, as for most actors, weeks can go by without the phone ringing and then, suddenly, several people are interested at once. On the day I spoke to him, he had been interviewed for a scene in the new Henry Winkler film "The One And Only," based on the life of Gorgeous George, and he was scheduled to read a second time for Liza Minelli's new Broadway show.

Speaking of his career, Olfson said that the role which has brought him the most publicity so far is the part of Terry Folsom, Nancy Walker's secretary on the now cancelled "The Nancy Walker Show." Olfson says the part has brought him "a lot of attention because I played a homosexual character." He adds that he has gotten "more attention from the press" than from the public because of the nature of the role. "Nobody who recognizes me has mentioned a word about it," he says. "It has had no bearing on my life outside the show." Olfson thinks the role attracted attention because "it happened to be the first regular gay role on a series."

Olfson notes that, because of the role, he "went from absolute obscurity to having my sex life publicly discussed." He was referring to questions asked by the media concerning his own sexual orientation. Olfson says he "saw no reason not to answer the question. You can't play the first running gay on a TV series without being asked that kind of question . . . it goes with the territory." (For the curious: his answer was that he "has had bisexual experiences.")

Olfson got his professional start at Green Mansions, a singles resort in the Catskills, at which Sid Ceasar and Carol Burnett also worked early in their careers. Olfson says he did "a stand-up comedy act" and "had to do a different show each night because the people would come and stay for a week. The audience was the same each night, so the show had to be different."

Before that, he went to Syracuse University for two years and studied at the American Theatre Wing for two years. He has also studied with Joan Darling. "We grew up together in Boston," he says. "She and her husband wrote my nightclub act . . . She was a director on 'Mary Hartman' . . . She helped create it and directed most of the first months of the show." Olfson has made guest appearances on "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman."

He speaks of his training as having been largely improvisational. "I like improvisation very much," he says. "The ability to think and be funny and clever in front of a camera is valuable. It's a draining kind of work, but when it works its very, very good." He added that he has found this training helpful even when he "gets written material."

Olfson created the role of the psychiatrist in "Scuba Duba," and played it on Broadway for 617 performances. It was a long run, and he says his training in improvisation was helpful because he could "vary it from night to night . . . I couldn't change the lines, but I could keep it fresh." Speaking of "Scuba Duba" he said it was "a good cast every one enjoyed each other." "Scuba Duba" was his "first New York experience," and from it came television commercials, from which he "made a living for many years."

In one of those television commercials he played a raisin. He says he got the part "because I was fat." "There is nothing more depressing," he adds, "than twelve middle-aged men in a bowl of one-foot square cornflakes pretending to be raisins." Speaking of the efforts of the production crew, he says, "It cost $1200 to make the spoon. They took a swatch of real raisins to the costume people, and had cloth dyed to match the raisins. They had to send it back three times to get the right color." Barney Martin and David Doyle worked with him as raisins. According to Olfson, "Martin still says that he was a raisin and I was a raisinette, because he was fatter than I was."

Olfson took his first acting lessons when he was eleven, along with his twin brother, who is now a writer. "I was very shy and very fat," Olfson says of himself. At the beginning, he says, his brother "was a better actor. I pulled curtains and did props a lot." Olfson's first part was as "the front end of a cow in 'Jack and the Beanstalk.'"

This was at the Boston Children's Theatre, which he describes as "one of the finest children's theatres in the country." The children act at the Boston Children's Theatre, he explained, rather than its being a case of adults performing for children. "We toured the playgrounds in summer," he says, "doing two performances a day . . . two different plays in a truck theatre . . . I learned a lot of discipline." He says his first teacher still watches him on television, and that "it's a great satisfaction to give pleasure to your earliest teachers."

His experiences at the Boston Children's Theatre, he says, "gave me respect for what goes on on a stage . . . there is nothing haphazard." He remembers he also "won a lot of oratorical contests" and that they used to "put arrows on the speeches to show when to make a gesture." "When we were ten, my brother and I used to sing on the radio. We still sing when we drive along the Connecticut roads," he adds, speaking of his visits to his brother who now lives in Connecticut.

★ ★ TV's Early Years

Monday

LORENE YARNELL and her husband, ROBERT SHIELDS, star in "Shields and Yarnell," a sprightly comedy-variety summer series highlighted by their comic mime impressions, Monday, June 27 (8:30-9 p.m. EDT) on CBS.

profit potential was enormous. Capturing the image on celluloid for syndication was a license to print money.

Milton Berle, the "king of comedy," rode the TV waves unchallenged until an obscure priest—Fulton J. Sheen—siphoned away enough viewers to cause Uncle Miltie's popular series canceled.

In 1954, year of the Army-McCarthy hearings, Warner Brothers and Disney contracted to produce shows for ABC. Many felt that ABC's push for profits prompted NBC and CBS to become much more ruthless in the competitive arena. They axed excellent live dramas and documentaries and geared up for production of violent or comedic programs to keep pace with ABC, at that time a lowly but struggling third in the ratings.

1955 newsman Edward R. Murrow was sitting at home one evening watching TV prior to his own See It Now program. He was startled to see a new game show.

Murrow predicted the popularity of this 10:00 quiz show ("The $64,000 Question") would cause his own 10:30 time slot to melt away. He was right.

$64,000 Question swept the country. Then followed $64,000 Challenge, Twenty-One, Dotto, Tic Tac Dough. $64,000 Question skyrocketed sales for a little known cosmetic company—Revlon, now a household word.

The Communist scare caused many performers "blacklisted," many of whom could no longer find work even though they had no Communist connections. Suspicion was enough. Accusation or rumor meant end of one's career. CBS even instituted a loyalty oath.

Over 140 stars became "untouchables," most of whom suddenly disappeared from the limelight.

Not until popular CBS personality John Henry Faulk employed famous trial lawyer Louis Nizer and took the "crusading patriots" to court were perpetrators of the scare like Vincent Hartness and Syracuse grocery chain owner Lawrence Johnson exposed.

Edward R. Murrow's revelations concerning Senator Joseph McCarthy ("Tail Gunner Joe"), then the subsequent televised trial and censure by his colleagues provided live and gripping drama for the public.

For many stations, "televising" or "showing" the live trial day-after day eased the burden of casting about for new programs, especially for the Dumont Network (which lasted five years) and struggling ABC.

Faulk's 1956 lawsuit is notable because he decided not to suffer in silence but to meet the blacklists head-on. Faulk won. Familiar faces again appeared on the screen. Others, not so fortunate, died prematurely because their careers had been destroyed.

1956 saw Don Larson pitch the only perfect world series game. The fall season brought Cheyenne to TV. Cheyenne was followed by an avalanche of westerns, all shaped out of the same cookie sheet: Maverick, Bat Masterson, Wyatt Earp, The Rifleman, and others. Chet Huntly and David Brinkley teamed up for the first time and the co-anchor became a fixture.

Nikita Khrushchev—on the heels of spectacular Sputnik launchings—showed up in America in 1957 stomping about the country, appearing on Face the Nation.

1958 brought the resignation of an FCC Commissioner—Richard A. Mack, - bribery evidence forcing him out. See It Now with Edward R. Murrow left the airwaves.

1959 saw the famous Nixon-Khrushchev "kitchen debate" in Moscow. Khrushchev's U.S. tour was widely covered. Banging his shoe on the UN table, and voicing a child-like desire to visit Disneyland, Khrushchev—leader of the Communist world—was a strange yet curious sight to American eyes, especially in the wake of Communist scares and blacklisting. TV covered fully his visit.

The most shocking revelation of the TV season occurred when report of quiz rigging were substantiated. Many contestants were fed answers for "entertainment purposes" designed to defeat opponents whom sponsors and producers saw as liabilities in the race for ratings.

For a time the quiz show departed the networks. In their wake came a flock of public-service programs including the very informative CBS Reports. 1960 brought The Untouchables to ABC with huge chunks of violence written into scripts to "soup them up" and garner more viewers. ABC made significant gains on NBC and CBS by concentrating on westerns and private eye thrillers.

With James Aubry now installed as President of CBS (his stock options being based on the profits he brought the network) and Robert Kitner at NBC, the race for profits and numbers was on. It was all out war.

Night after night millions sat glued watching an incredible array of knifings, beatings, murders, robberies, fires, chase scenes, or canned laughter beating, pounding, and crashing into the eardrums to support weak comedies.

Radio, meanwhile, was languishing. With the rise to stardom of the DJ, plugging, promoting, playing "hit after hit," radio was rising from the rubble and ashes.

Specialized audience formats were reaching target audiences (country & western, solid gold, all news). Gone were the old comedians, stage dramas, serials. In their place a 60 minute log might show numerous references to station ID's, weather, time, contests, top hits, all pumped out at breakneck speed with shrieks, bangs, gongs, whistles, howls—anything to "keep it tight," "keep it movin'," making sure "the beat goes on."

The days of innocence were over. The Untouchables led the parade for violence on TV. Yet TV had its great moments in 1960: the Nixon-Kennedy debates, televising the Khrushchev-Castro meeting on the sidewalks of Harlem—two notable examples.

Television, now the gawky adolescent, too often was nothing more than bubble gum for the eyes, a twentieth century medicine show.

Many wondered to what extent television was shaping the pictures in our heads including our expectations of what the "good life" was all about. Was television, in the interest of profits and ratings, showing violence on a scale previously unreported.

The uneasy 60's were yet ahead.

Cheryl Ladd has been signed to join Kate Jackson, Farrah Fawcett-Majors and Jaclyn Smith in ABC's "Charley's Angels." Ms. Ladd will play Kris Munroe, the younger sister of Jill Munroe played by Ms. Fawcett-Majors. "Charley's Angels" began production on June 1 for its second season.

Ruth Gordon, who stars in a CBS dramatic special, "The Prince of Central Park," broadcast Friday, June 17, says she will never retire because "there's so much to do." The 80-year-old actress, who is best known for her Oscar-winning role in "Rosemary's Baby," began her career in 1915. "My first speaking part was in the role of Nibs in 'Peter Pan,'" she recalls, "and my first line was: 'What's a checkbook?'"

"The Kallikaks," a new half-hour comedy about a family's schemes to beat the system, will premiere on NBC this summer. David Huddleston stars as J.T. Kallikak, head of a Southern family, operating a decrepit, two-pump gas station in the middle of nowhere (California).

Darryl McCullough, Moose in the ABC comedy series "San Pedro Bums," which will premiere next fall, is preparing for his role by learning to box. One of the show's episodes will feature him in the ring. Darryl's boxing coach will be Eddie Foy III, ABC's director of casting, who, as a youth, fought in Golden Gloves competitions.

Bishop John Neumann of Philadelphia, who died in 1860, will be canonized by Pope Paul VI in a ceremony to be broadcast as a CBS News Religious Special on Sunday, June 19. The two-hour ceremony, transmitted live via satellite from St. Peter's Square in the Vatican, will include a procession of gifts including wines, a porcelain bowl filled with rice (to symbolize Bishop Neumann's concern for the poor), and clothing and medicine, which represent his interest in needy families. Bishop Neumann, who visited prisons and traveled throughout Pennsylvania consoling the poor and sick, was the founder of the parochial school system in the U.S. He was beatified in 1963.

Shaun Cassidy, who stars in "The Hardy Boys Mystery Hour" over ABC, considers himself a musician first and an actor second. Cassidy is elated over the sales of his new single, "Da Doo Ron Ron," which was released last month. According to Billboard magazine, the record is on its way to becoming a smash hit.

Speaking of music, Tom and John Keane, two young singing brothers, will host their own half-hour musical variety series for four weeks this summer. "The Keane Brothers Show" will premiere Friday, August 12, on CBS. Tom, 12, who began singing at the age of 2, is best known for his tribute to President Carter's daughter Amy ("Show the World You're There.") John, 11, who began to accompany his brother on the drums at age 9, also plays guitar, trumpet and vibes.

The two stars of the highly acclaimed TV movie, "Giving Birth," Linda Purl and Desi Arnaz, Jr., are teaming up again for a two-hour motion picture currently filming in Los Angeles and San Francisco and slated for presentation during the 1977-78 season over ABC. The movie, "Dangerous Love," focuses on a young college girl with old-fashioned virtues who falls in love with a medical student. Also starring in the movie are Bill Bixby, Jessica Walter, Tom Bosley and David Doyle.

Serenada Homeowners plan meeting

The Serenada Country Estates Homeowners Association will hold a meeting on Tuesday, June 28 at 7:30 p.m. at the Stonehaven Community Center.

Dale Illig, a local attorney who is president of the San Gabriel Heights Homeowners Association, will be the guest speaker. He will explain to the groups why the San Gabriel Homeowners Association was formed and its benefits. John Pope, a member of the Austin Police Department who lives in Serenada, will present a film and program describing ways to reduce the risk of crime in the neighborhood. The Serenada Country Estates Homeowners Association was first organized last May. Interim officers for the organization are president Russell Green, vice president Jim Lieve, secretary Karen Radcliffe, treasurer Mike Riddle.

The directors are Bob Brayton, Claudia Caldwell, Raj Goel, Jim Radcliffe and William Rose.

Polka band to present park concert

The Shadetree Polka Band is scheduled to present a concert of old favorites in the bandstand of San Gabriel Park Thursday, June 30, at 8 p.m., weather permitting.

The band will feature several selections of Frantisek Kmoch, often called the John Phillip Sousa of Europe, and will play a variety of marches, polkas, waltzes and schottisches.

The popular and colorful band is beginning its second year in the Georgetown area.

PAINTINGS AND DRAWINGS by San Antonio artist Sharon Farnsworth will be featured in an exhibit beginning July 5 at the Driftwood Gallery at 1201 Church Street in Georgetown. The display will consist mainly of wildlife studies, florals and figure studies in a variety of media. Mrs. Farnsworth works in ink, watercolor and acrylic and she has studied with Al Brouillette, Ivan McDougal and Gordon West. She is a member of the River Art Group, Hill Country Arts Foundation, San Antonio Watercolor Association and the Texas Fine Arts Association.

Leander Senior Citizen Center to be discussed

Interested citizens will meet July 7 at the Leander Elementary School to discuss plans for establishing an area Senior Citizens Center.

Mrs. Charles Hughes and Wayman Stockton, both of Leander, are organizing the meeting, which is scheduled for 8 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

Robert C. Hoover, Regional Adult Program Specialist for Region 6 of the Texas Department of Public Welfare, and other DPW personnel will participate in the meeting. A slide show, "Old Can Be Beautiful," describing various types of activities designed for senior citizens, will be shown.

"These ideas were developed to permit a wide range of choice," Hoover said. "There is no age requirement. Youth, middle-age and older people can all help."

He described the meeting as a "brainstorming" session to develop ideas specifically related to the Leander area. "We would like to have a large group taking part," Mrs. Hughes said.

The general public is invited to the organizational meeting.

"We think that establishing a Senior Citizens Center in this area can be an exciting and rewarding experience," Mrs. Hughes added. "It will benefit not only senior citizens, but the entire community."

Assisting in the arrangements for the meeting are Mrs. Pauline Naumann, Bess Mills, Bea Smith, Anna Barho, Bernice Wiley, Lucille Schrapshire and S. E. Wiley.

In 1879 a new baseball rule allowed a batter to reach first base after receiving nine balls.

Radioman Mackey in Mediterranean

Navy Radioman First Class L. C. Mackey, son of Hosea Mackey of Taylor, is currently on an extended deployment in the Mediterranean Sea.

He is serving as a crewmember aboard the guided missile destroyer USS Farragut, homeported in Norfolk, Va. His ship is operating as a unit of the U.S. Sixth Fleet.

He and his fellow shipmates recently visited Athens and Turkey. During the remainder of the cruise, his ship is scheduled to participate in several training operations with other Sixth Fleet units and with ships of allied nations. In addition to the training exercises, several more port visits in Mediterranean countries are planned.

The Farragut is 512 feet long and carries a crew of 377 officers and enlisted men. She is outfitted with guns, torpedo tubes and an antisubmarine rocket launcher.

He joined the Navy in June 1958.

FORMER GEORGETOWN RESIDENT Anthony Abbey is shown above with his registered Nubian doe goat which was presented to him by Melvin Bane, (right) president of the Texas Dairy Goat Association. Anthony is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Abbey who are presently residing in Robstown. Anthony, who is a member of the Annville 4-H Club, was awarded the goat after his essay on why he wanted the goat and how he would care for it was selected by the DGA. As a recipient of the goat, Anthony will be required to donate another doe kid to the DBA so that it may be given to another 4-Her.

WARNING ON FLEAS

THE FLEA CAN LIVE 2 MONTHS AND LAY 200 EGGS. SINCE IMMATURE FLEAS CAN BE FOUND WHEREVER THE DOG HAS BEEN - HIS BED, ON FLOORS AND OUTSIDE IN GRASS - A FLEA COLLAR IS NOT ENOUGH. YOU MUST BUILD A CIRCLE OF PROTECTION FOR YOUR PET WITH THIS 5-STEP PLAN.

1. BATHE THE DOG WITH A SOLUTION OF HOLIDAY ODOR FREE FLEA AND TICK CONCENTRATE.

2. USE A HOME FOGGER TO KILL FLEAS INSIDE THE HOUSE. START RELEASING THE GAS - THEN TAKE ROVER ON A PICNIC WHILE IT WORKS.

3. TREAT THE YARD WITH LAWN AND KENNEL SPRAY OR KENNEL DUST.

4. REPEAT 7 TO 10 DAYS LATER - ALL PROCEDURES. THIS IS THE 1-2 PUNCH THAT KNOCKS OUT NEW FLEAS.

5. ONCE A WEEK, DURING WARM WEATHER, DUST DOG WITH FLEA STOP TO STOP FUTURE REINFESTATION.

Wood thinks LCRA requesting too much

The Public Utility Commission is expected to rule on LCRA's request for an $8-$9 million rate hike after its present recess ending July 8.

All public hearings concerning LCRA's proposed increase were held with only briefs remaining to be filed. According to LCRA, additional funds are needed for capital improvements.

Although "capital improvements" can center around updating any equipment within the organization, the present rate request focuses primarily on building a Phase II coal-fired generating plant.

Leo Wood, Georgetown City Manager, says "We think LCRA is asking too much. I doubt LCRA will even come close to getting all it's asking for."

Wood commented that LCRA's last rate increase was to build the Phase I coal-fired generating plant in LaGrange. "At that time it raised the base rates 26 1/2%. Since we don't foresee the Public Utility Commission granting LCRA this kind of increase, and with whatever increase is granted being spread over so many customers, we think the impact on Georgetown will be minimal."

No matter how the PUC decides, we can all be certain of one thing: the days of cheap energy are gone forever.

Young conservationists begin work Monday in Georgetown

Eighteen Georgetown boys and girls begin work this Monday, the result of being hired by the Youth Conservation Corp., co-sponsored by the Department of Agriculture and the Department of Interior. Georgetown, upon learning YCC funds were available, applied and received funding to hire the youngsters.

Fred Pond, coordinator, said the youngsters will be involved in a "work-learn" project.

They work a 30 hour week doing physical labor: "They will be building a park," says Pond.

"The youngsters will work at Blue Hole. They will be clearing land around the river, chopping trees, building pathways and walkways and nature trails, thinning out undergrowth, and putting in trash receptacles."

The program is not merely work-oriented. Ten hours each week is devoted to classes in conservation awareness and ecology.

The youngsters will be supervised by two local men who have excellent backgrounds in conservation-awareness programs: James Tippet, a high school biology teacher, and Fred Hilgeman, chemistry department of Southwestern University.

Jim Colbert is the director of the Georgetown YCC Program.

Fantasticks to perform at St. Edward's University

St. Edward's University Theatre will present their second production of the summer, a musical-fantasy, "The Fantasticks." This will be the first musical presented on the Mary Moody Northern arena stage.

"The Fantasticks," the longest running musical in theatrical history and written by University of Texas graduates, Tom Jones and Harvey Schmidt, will star veteran character actor John Carradine in the role of Henry Albertson, an old actor.

Carradine, father of Academy Award-winner, Keith Carradine, and Kung-Fu star, David Carradine, is well known in America for his many film and stage portrayals including his memorable performance in

"The Grapes of Wrath." He has acted with stars ranging from Basil Rathbone to Henry Fonda.

Special guest star for "The Fantasticks" will be Sherri Spillane, wife of famed mystery writer, Mickey Spillane. Ms. Spillane, whose roles include Dorothy in "The Wizard of Oz" and Nellie in "South Pacific," will recreate her off-Broadway role of Louisa, the starry-eyed young heroine who seeks her hero, Matt.

St. Edward's faculty member, Bill Pfuderer, will portray the character El Gallo as well as direct the production. John Bennett, who has worked with opera star, Beverly Sills, and most recently has adapted and arranged the music for a new scripting of Dicken's "A Christmas Carol," will be musical director for "The Fantasticks."

University of Texas student, Sam Shipp, who was last seen on the Zachary Scott stage as Olin Potts in their production of "The Last Meeting of the White Magnolias," will play Bellamy, Louisa's father.

Another local actor, Austin Lawrence, will portray Hucklebee, Matt's father. Austin audiences will remember his portrayal of Harry Van in the Paramount production of "Idiots Delight."

Lawrence has acted with such stars as Joe E. Brown, Hugh O'Brien, Pat O'Brien, Dan Dailey and Betty Grable. His first professional stint was a production of "Anything Goes" which was directed by Tom Jones, co-author of "The Fantasticks."

There is one change in the performance schedule for the summer season. On Saturdays there is a "Twilight" performance at 6 p.m. and a late evening performance at 9:30 p.m. Regular evening performances are at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday through Friday and also on Sunday.

A Sunday matinee is offered at 2:30 p.m. Reservations are needed for this production. Reservations and additional information may be obtained by calling 444-8398.

Plants not recommended for human consumption include apricot kernels, pokeweed and water hemlock.

MOVING — Karner Inc., a branch plant of Economy Furniture in Austin, will soon be moving out of the 70,000 square foot building on south Church Street in Georgetown, which is owned by Wallace Giddings. Economy's five-year lease on the building will be up this summer and plans are to move the facility into a vacancy in the Economy Furniture complex in Austin. All the Georgetown employees of the company have been offered their same jobs at the Austin facility.

LEADING the 1976 campaign were W. Grogan Lord of Georgetown and Houston, general chairman; Mrs. Edwin Allday of Houston, vice chairman; M. Lamar Muse of Dallas, alumni chairman; Wayne Hightower of Houston, major gifts chairman; John M. Robinson of Houston, special gifts; Mrs. Mary Owen Greenwood of Houston, president of the President's Council; and Vernon Sheffield of Houston, corporate solicitation chairman.

Heading this year's campaign will be Roy Cullen of Houston, general chairman; Carroll Baird of Dallas, vice chairman; Lamar Muse of Dallas, alumni chairman;

Grogan Lord, major gifts chairman; and A. Frank Smith, Jr., chairman of the Board of Trustees. Other leaders will be named later, President Fleming said.

"THE BROWN CHALLENGE" is centered on the power of incentive awards. Southwestern University is motivated highly and we are working diligently toward meeting the 1977 goal of $650,000. We expect to reach it before December 31," President Fleming said.

The Brown Challenge calls for an increased effort in giving each year for the next nine years with the objective of broadening Southwestern's base of support, thereby making the University more self reliant.

Shower drenches vaqueros

HEAVY RAINS didn't stop the Rodeo Parade in Georgetown Thursday. More than 55 entries and 20 or more horse riders braved the weather anyway. (Above) This rider, although soaking wet, rode the entire course of the parade. (Left) Kirsten (r) and Erika Peterson ride the first place hometown float entered by the Flower Nook. The girls, daughters of Dr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Peterson, are the granddaughters of Lillian Peterson, owner of the Flower Nook. (See more pictures page 6).

It was a wet and rainy day in Georgetown Thursday but, despite the inclement weather conditions, many area residents lined the sidewalks huddling under awnings, to view the 34th Annual Williamson County Sheriff's Posse Parade.

A total of 57 units were lined up in the parade, excluding more than 20 bicycle and horse riders, and they completed the parade route in a drizzling rain.

"I was really very pleased with the parade," Chamber of Commerce manager L. L. Longley said, "especially with the hometown parade entries and the spectators."

First and second place ribbons were awarded parade entrants in six categories. The first place ribbon in the "Special" category was awarded to the Smithville Chamber of Commerce and the second place ribbon was given to Taylor.

The float from the Gonzales Chamber of Commerce was named the "Best Out of Town Float" and the Austin Aqua-Festival placed second.

The Flower Nook took first place honors and the Georgetown Chamber of Commerce placed second in the "Best Hometown Float" division.

The Brown County Sheriff's Posse was named the "Best Riding Unit" and Travis County Sheriff's Posse was awarded the red ribbon.

Dean Elliot placed first and Russell Elliot

placed second in the "Best Dressed Cowboy."

In the "Best Dressed Cowgirl" competition, first place was given to Dina Elliot and second place went to June Elliot.

JoAnn Schneider placed first, Connie Schneider placed second and Nancy Schneider placed third in the "Best Decorated Bicycle" division.

A concert, present by the Georgetown Community Band under the direction of Dr. George Nelson, was cut short when a shower dampened the spirits (and the sheet music) of the musicians. The band did perform, however, for about 30 minutes and more than a hundred persons lined the streets and the courthouse lawn to listen.

The Gonzales Gunfighters were unable to make the Western Week festivities as scheduled, but one member, Rick Dennis, of the group along with Georgetown resident L. A. Rutledge held several shootouts during the day. Shortly after lunch the two bandits robbed Gellman's, taking a woman as hostage, and about 4 p.m. the bandits stirred up trouble by robbing Georgetown Savings and Loan.

Mud and rain didn't stop the real cowboys either — the rodeo went as scheduled, with only slightly less than an average Thursday night attendance.

The rodeo cowboys also wrestled steers and rode broncos Friday night and the climaxing evening of rodeo action was to have begun at 8 p.m. Saturday.

SU nets over $900,000 from '76 Brown Challenge

The Brown Foundation, Inc., of Houston, has awarded $912,876 — $296,642 more than expected — to Southwestern University as the result of the first year of the Brown

Challenge, University President Durwood Fleming announced this week.

The Brown Foundation noted that constituents of the University had exceeded the first year goal of $575,000 by $268,642, and agreed to match that additional amount on a one-to-one basis.

SOUTHWESTERN ALUMNI also earned an additional $123,000 on special incentive awards to bring the total gift from the Brown Foundation to $912,876 for the first year.

The Brown Challenge is a 10-year program offered by the Brown Foundation to give Southwestern almost $11 million for fixed endowment if the school's constituency contributes $8.4 million for operational funds.

Southwestern's trustees, alumni, parents, students, and other supporters responded by far exceeding that first year goal as they gave $999,031.05.

By Don Scarbrough

Baseball's not my game but, even so, I would like to be around when the Houston Astros and the Texas Rangers meet in the World Series. Then, of course, I would enjoy seeing the Dallas Cowboys collide with the Houston Oilers in the Superbowl.

I would also appreciate watching the Georgetown Eagles win the state AAA football championship before my 65th birthday and, Coach Les Johnson, that doesn't give you a lot more time. Am I being a little greedy?

HAVE YOU NOTICED how some people are never in a hurry, no matter how much business they are tackling? State Senator Bill Patman, for instance. Bill has a big part of Texas to represent, yet he always has time to go wherever he's invited and is always among the last to leave. "Buster" Compton is another, so are Thatcher and Genevieve Atkin, and Dr. Durwood Fleming. There are others, of course, but these come to mind. I wish I had the gift. Seems I am always saying, "This is delightful, but I gotta go."

There have been some raised eyebrows since our Sunday Sun story last week that three school people — board president Thomas, Supt. Frost and Business Manager Jerry Graham — will accompany financial manager Curtis Adrian to New York to obtain the best possible rating for the $1.8 million bonds voted in the recent election. Some folks can see little need for four people making the trip — ultimately at the taxpayer's expense. They wonder if Adrian couldn't do the job alone just as well. "For that matter," they ask, "wouldn't a comprehensive letter serve? What could four people from Georgetown, Texas say to bonds people in New York that would interest or influence them other than how much collateral we have to support the bonds?"

BEATS ME. PERHAPS Mr. Adrian would like to explain the situation in a letter we will be pleased to print on the editorial page next Thursday. It is my understanding that he strongly urged that the men accompany him.

Sheriff August Bosshard told me, in no uncertain terms this week, he will not be a candidate for re-election. "I still have three-and-a-half years to go on my present term," he said, "and that will be long enough."

Brushy Bend Park

Subdivision moves to incorporate

Representing 22 petitioners who are among about 100 families living in the Brushy Bend Park, M. O. Moreland said that the main reason the property owners want to incorporate their community is "to maintain our present lifestyle."

"We are interested in a large municipal government," Moreland said, "so we have filed the necessary petitions to hold an election to incorporate."

Brushy Bend Park is a 370-acre development on County Road 174, about four miles west of Round Rock. "There are about 260 residents," Moreland estimated, "and about 110 families."

Moreland, who is acting as a representative for the petitioners said, "We like what we have here and we want to choose our form of government."

He explained that the petitioners were asking for a mayor-commissioner type of government rather than the municipal form because "it's easier."

The election of a mayor and two commissioners will be on the same ballot as the incorporation issue and the Brushy Bend Park residents will be asked to vote August 13.

The polls will be set up at the residence of Silas W. Holt at 1905 Brushy Bend Drive and will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Candidates for the offices of mayor and commissioners have until July 13, 30 days before the election, to file an application to have their name placed on the ballot with the county clerk in Georgetown.

The mayor and the commissioners, if elected, shall serve until the first Saturday in April, 1978.

Silas W. Holt has been appointed presiding judge for the election and Frederick W. Mulloy has been appointed alternate presiding judge. Gerry G. Gabehart and Nancy J. Phillips will serve as election clerks.

The Brushy Bend Park community is being developed by Brushy Bend Properties, Inc. and the developer is N. G. Whitlow of Round Rock.

The area is estimated at being 70 to 80 percent developed at this time, Moreland said.

Moreland said that he and seven other committee members have contacted almost all the residents in the community encouraging the incorporation.

3 jury members chosen in Muniz murder trial

Questioning of prospective jury members for the Muniz capital murder trial continued all week, but only three men had been selected for jury duty by Friday afternoon.

18 prospective jurors had been questioned individually by the district attorney and defense attorney since Tuesday morning, but 15 of them were disqualified.

Jury selection is considered critical to the outcome of the trial, and selecting the 12 persons to serve on the jury will probably take most of next week.

Muniz is accused of the rape and murder of a Southwestern University coed in Georgetown last December.

Prospective jurors are being called from a list of 122 names and questioned on the witness stand by District Attorney Ed Walsh and Defense Attorney Ruben Sandoval.

Both Walsh and Sandoval have 15 automatic strikes, that is they can have 15 prospective jurors disqualified without giving any reasons.

So far, the state has used 2 strikes and the defense attorney has used 3.

Ten prospective jurors have been disqualified by District Judge William S. Lott. Most of those disqualified by the court have been because in the judge's opinion that person had already formed an opinion of the case.

After all 12 members are picked, Judge Lott will sequester the jury.

They will be kept together at county expense and guarded at all times by a Sheriff's Deputy.

They will not be allowed to talk to anyone except through a bailiff, to talk on the telephone, watch news programs on TV or read newspaper accounts of the trial.

A sentence of either life imprisonment or death is mandatory if a defendant is found guilty in a capital murder case.

Muniz was arrested two days after the Southwestern University coed's body was discovered December 22 on the banks of the San Gabriel River.

Preliminary autopsy reports indicated that the woman died of a fractured skull in the course of rape.

The trial will begin as soon as a jury is picked.

Medical X-ray. Further research tends further to indict X-ray as a potential hazard.

Responsible radiologists who are able to study these reports objectively and evaluate them in perspective are frequently, quite properly, resentful of the news media tendency to synopsize research with a hit-and-run sentence or two which add up to "medical X-ray is dangerous."

They know that too much of almost anything is dangerous.

They know that how much is too much X-ray has not been established.

They know that this diagnostic and treatment tool must be handled with respect.

And that it must be used when it is "the lesser of evils" — a calculated risk accepted in exchange for a known benefit.

Now having said that, let's examine the newest research and recommendations relating to X-ray.

At long last, albeit reluctantly, the National Cancer Institute has decided it is not a good idea for women routinely to receive X-ray examination for breast cancer.

Especially, the NCI now says, women under 50 should not casually subject themselves to these examinations. X-radiation is cumulative. That means it "builds up" in the human body over the years, with each additional exposure adding to the odds — that X-ray examination for cancer might itself cause cancer.

So now the NCI decides that, for younger women especially, the risks outweigh the benefits.

This next will be challenged but deserves to be considered.

Diagnosticians, with a tremendous investment in X-ray, might be inclined to overuse it to pay for it.

Six percent of all health care expenditures in the United States are for diagnostic X-ray examinations — and that number has been increasing 8 percent per year.

The American Medical Assn., which must also consider the radiologists, has been reluctant to take an official position.

However, the June issue of the AMA Journal included a report that diagnostic X-rays performed on pregnant women can cause genetic damage to their babies and increase the risk of certain childhood diseases — including leukemia.

These Roswell Park scientists say that even "low doses" of radiation can cause genetic damage to the offspring.

And they are pretty definite about it, using such dogmatic phrases as "clear prima facie evidence" and "a 50-fold increase in the risk of leukemia."

And this article says, "These findings refute a dogma that is often cited by radiologists who claim that diagnostic radiation is harmless."

It is not harmless.

The overuse of X-ray can be blamed largely on the malpractice lawsuit threat. Now, however, with these new public warnings, the physician who recommends X-ray may be liable.

So, because he is often "durned if he does and durned if he doesn't," it behooves the patient himself to decline X-ray exposure except where it is urgently recommended.

Got to organize

With growing anger we've been watching those TV reports on the farming situation in this country.

Unless our farmers get together in some sort of national combine to control the number of acres they plant in such crops as wheat, soybeans, cotton and grains they are going to be bankrupt by all the greedy guys between them and their markets.

IF THE FARMERS would organize, they could quickly stabilize prices on their produce, they would have enough profit to become their own truckers and processors. They would have a fair amount of profit at the end of every year.

Until they do this, farming will remain a hazardous occupation, offering little incentive to the young, bright people who might be expected to follow their parents' footsteps and stay on the farm.

Ditto for the ranchers.

A learning process

Newspaper publishers, if they are any good at all, never stop learning.

They learn from each other to a great extent, by observing, experimenting, changing.

A COUPLE OF WEEKS AGO, for instance, we changed our format on obituaries — going from single-column to double-column width. We think the wider column is more easily noticed and read, and better reflects the importance we feel for these reports.

One of our sports writers — young Damond Benningfield — has a flair for makeup and design. We turn him loose on the sports section which has been expanded to a double-page in most of our issues. He also designed the new headings for our editorial and sports pages and would like to come up with new ones for our community correspondents, although we do like them as they are.

We learn from watching the other papers. Each week we leaf through our exchanges, comparing and searching. On occasions we pick up ideas on reporting, editorials and advertising.

THIS WEEK TWO MEMBERS of the staff attended the Texas Press Association meeting in Galveston, a fun thing with a lot of listening and

Message from U.S. farm wives

By John D. Moorhead

Chicago In addition to stiff-stemmed winter wheat now about thigh high, the soil of the plains states west of here is nurturing a growing political force: farmers' wives.

Over the last six to nine months, more than 8,000 farm women have joined newly formed groups. Their representatives have journeyed to Washington to get their message to Congress and letter and telephone campaigns have been launched.

"We have to be willing to fight for what we believe is a good way of life," says Karen Smith of Burlington, Colorado, who organized Partners in Action for Agriculture (PAA). "The family farm is not only important to us but to the whole country."

PAA began with a letter she wrote to the Burlington Record last October and now has chapters in Colorado, Kansas, and Oklahoma.

PAA and the other new farm women's groups generally see their goal in educational terms. "We stay away from policy-making," says Mrs. Smith. "We want to present the case for the family farm in as calm, dignified, and intelligent a way as possible. Any time you get into policy questions, you start getting conflict."

"We started out by responding to editorials in farm journals that said everything was just fine down on the farm," explains Kathryn Helsel of South Haven, Kansas. "We didn't feel that [the editorial writers] were being realistic about what was really happening — the falling price of wheat and the increasing crop input costs."

That was the beginning of Concerned

Farm Wives, which had its birth at a baby shower last October. "Three gals were sitting around complaining about the same things they had complained about for the last three years. We decided maybe we should complain to somebody besides ourselves. . . . They did, and the organization 'like the wonderful little amoeba, just started growing,'" Mrs. Helsel recalls.

There now are CFW chapters in Colorado, Oklahoma, Kansas, and Nebraska, with a total membership of 1,500 to 2,000.

Another group, Women Involved In Farm Economics (WIFE) had its first meeting Dec. 6, 1976, with nine women present. Since then, its membership has swelled to 5,000 with chapters in 10 states, according to Joan O'Connell of Sydney, Nebraska, one of the original organizers.

"It grew just like a prairie fire," says Mrs. O'Connell, who explains that the group's goal is to "educate consumers that farmers cannot produce their products at a loss."

She contends that "farmers are depicted as the bogey man on farm prices, but it is just not true. In 1976, the average cost to raise a bushel of wheat in the Nebraska panhandle was $3.44 and this year it is higher. . . . The current wheat price is $1.71 per bushel. We feel we are subsidizing other people's affluent life-style."

She says conditions where farmers lose money on the wheat they sell sap their confidence as well as their capital.

"We want to make it possible for the family farm to continue," says Mildred Constable of Delphos, Kansas, one of the organizers of Women Fighting for the Family Farm. "We are going broke."

These groups generally seek the cooperation of the nation's major farm organizations. However, groups like the American Farm Bureau Federation, the National Farmers Union, the National Farmers Organization, and the Grange have specific policies they would like to see pursued — and these policies differ significantly.

Florence Thomas of the Farm Bureau says members of that organization should support its platform. To the new women's groups, she says with a smile: "You join us; we are not going to join you."

Swim party planned for local 4-Hers

The Georgetown 4-H leaders are hosting a swimming and watermelon party June 30 from 5 to 8 p.m. at the city pool for the Georgetown 4-H Club members.

4-Hers should bring their completed 4-H record book, which is due on July 1, to the party.

Club members will be on hand to sign the national report forms at the party.

Utility costs may cause mortgage foreclosures to increase by 50 percent, according to Mrs. Sue Young, housing and home furnishings specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Pretreat heavily soiled areas and greasy stains in clothing, then use warm wash temperatures and save energy costs. This laundry method is as effective as hot-water washing, says Mrs. Becky Culp, area clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Horticulture Notes

By John N. Cooper

The second generation pecan nut casebearer moths are emerging. The first generation was a few days earlier than usual this year. Consequently, the second generation got off to an early start. The second generation spray is usually applied around July 1. However since the first generation spray was applied perhaps 2 or 3 days earlier than usual an application may be necessary around June 27-30 for the second generation.

The larvae that hatched from eggs in mid-May burrowed inside of nutlets. Many larvae destroyed entire clusters of nutlets. The signs of their damage still linger, with some of the hollow dried nutlets still clinging to the stems by the frass and webbing they produce while feeding.

AFTER FEEDING in the nutlets for a time the casebearer pupates inside the nutlets and moths emerge 42 to 45 days following the first generation emergence. The first generation peak emergence was around May 17 in Georgetown. The southern areas of Williamson County were a day or two earlier. Generally spraying began a little early for optimum first generation casebearer control this year. The first generation egg-lay was in a short length of time and should have provided good prospects for effective control with one insecticide application. However, in general spraying began a little early for optimum control. Some larvae emerged after the poison residual was lost. Consequently the second generation moths from the larvae that escaped should be watched closely for egg-laying.

The second generation moths lay the tiny white eggs in the grooves along the side of the nuts. Most often they are layed toward the tip end but may be at any point along the grooves of the shuck. When first layed the eggs are white, just smaller than a pin head. By the second day they develop pink dots that spread this color throughout the developing egg. By the fourth day the egg is a pinkish red and by the fifth day has hatched. The hatching larvae are white to pink when young but later develop an olive gray to green color and grow to about 1/2 inch long.

Due to the size of the nuts at this state the larvae will only damage one or two nuts. Most of the nutlet shedding from faulty pollination, or stress on the tree's food reserves has already occurred. The remaining nuts, have a good chance of developing into mature pecans. Loss of nuts at this stage then, will not prevent further nut drop. Any nut loss will sacrifice yield at this point.

A FEW EGGS have been observed in Georgetown. Some early laying can be expected to occur from now until egg laying is completed in early July. The early lay is insignificant. However as the numbers increase to 3 or 4 eggs per 100 nutlets you have an economic population. Once the first few larvae emerge and begin to feed you should spray.

A third generation may occur in damaging proportions but usually the shells have hardened and the larvae cannot penetrate the shell. However shuck damage may result in nuts dropping and production of hollow nuts. This generation sometimes requires control.

For recommendations of chemicals to use consult your local pesticide dealer or the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Average price of regular gas passes 60 cents per gallon

The average price of regular gasoline in Texas has passed the 60-cent-per-gallon level, and further price increases are coming at many service stations before the July Fourth Weekend.

A survey of 231 service stations conducted by the American Automobile Association, Texas Division, revealed average gasoline prices per gallon of 60.2 for regular, 63.0 for unleaded and 64.6 for premium.

While these prices represent an increase of only about one-half cent per gallon over the prices revealed by AAA's survey just before the Memorial Day Weekend (59.8 for regular, 62.7 for unleaded and 64.4 for premium), many station operators told AAA that their prices would be going up 1 to 2 cents per gallon around July 1.

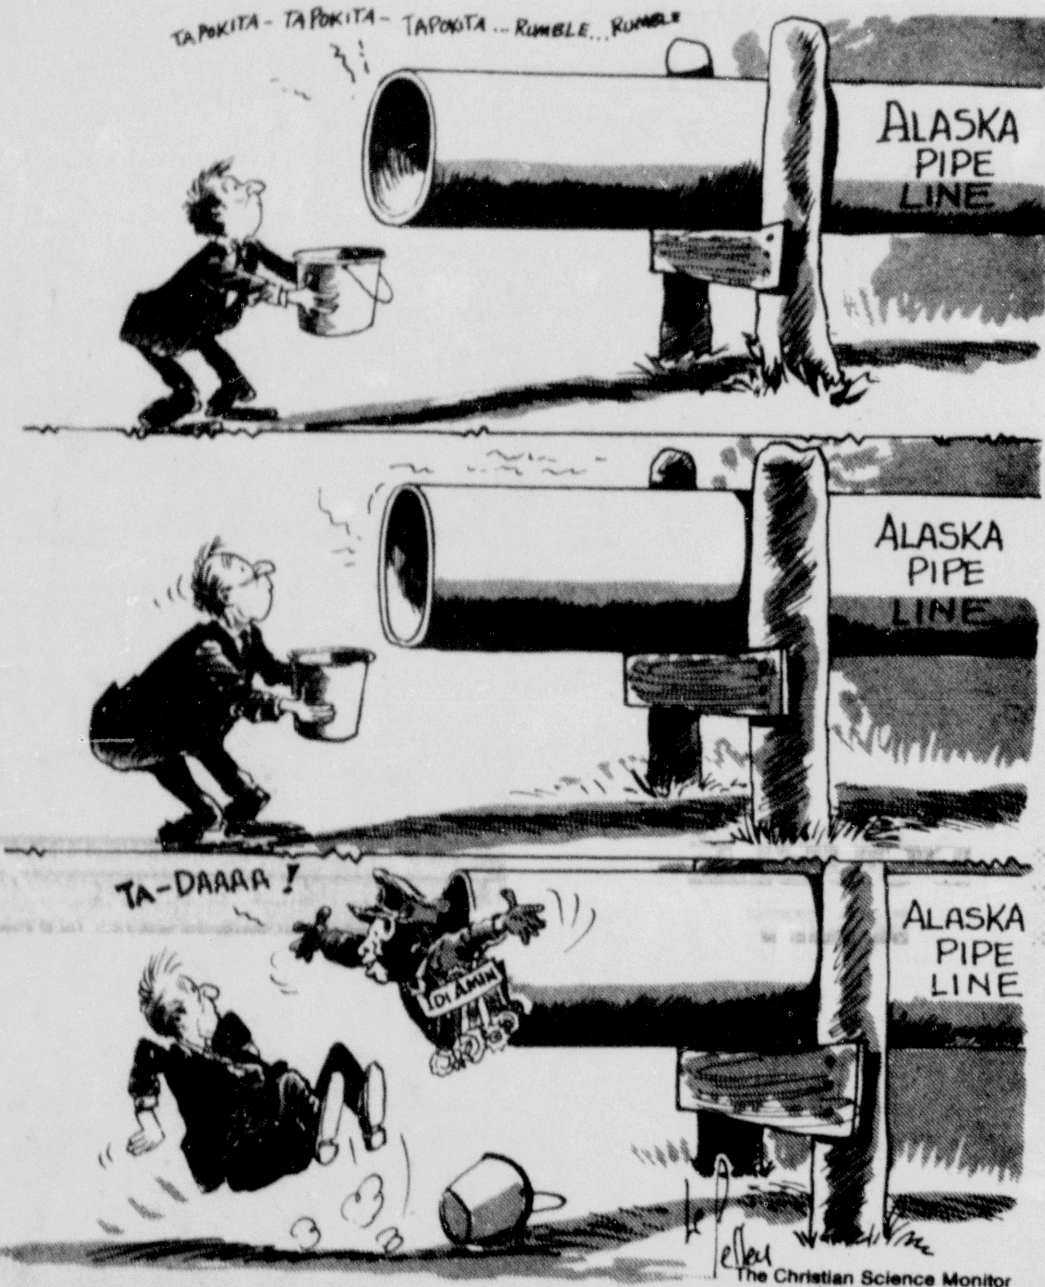

A comparison of AAA's study with one made at the same time last year shows that the average price of regular gas has risen 3.9 cents a gallon in the past year. Unleaded fuel averages 4.7 cents a gallon more, and premium has gone up 4.2 cents a gallon.

Motorists should have few problems finding an open station during the July Fourth Weekend. All but one of the 231 stations surveyed will be open on Saturday, while 72 percent will be open on Sunday and 85 percent on Monday.

Service stations in College Station, Fort Worth and McAllen tied for the lowest-priced gasoline found anywhere in the state by the survey — 51.9 cents per gallon for regular. A station in Fort Stockton reported the highest price 72.6 cents a gallon for premium.

The survey indicated that motorists who pump their own gas can save an average of 4.3 cents per gallon off the full-service price of fuel.

AUSTIN — Gov. Dolph Briscoe cleared his desk of legislation passed during the regular session and announced he will call lawmakers back to work July 11.

Briscoe settled on the early July date for a special session on the complex issue of public school finance which evaded all earlier efforts at solution. "I think it should be possible to accomplish the work of the session in a week to 10 days," Briscoe said. "There is enough agreement that we should be able to work out a good school finance bill in a relatively short period of time. . . . I am giving everybody an opportunity to plan around the (July 11) date."

House Speaker Bill Clayton and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby have indicated they favor the legislature's early passage of something similar to the conference committee report which died on final night of the regular session. The bill provided about $900 million in additional school aid.

Briscoe saved some of the most important bills until last. Among the last measures approved were consolidation of three major state water agencies, the "sunset bill" providing for phase-out of outmoded state agencies and the new medical malpractice act.

Crime Unpredictable Total "index" crime doubled during the last four years, and may do so again 1977-1980.

City areas with 78 per cent of the population reported 78 per cent of the crime, but the violent crime rate is higher in rural areas. The C.J.D. study also revealed these findings—

—Last year, a quarter billion dollars worth of property was reported stolen in the state.

—The typical murder victim was 20-35 years old and a white male. The typical person arrested in murder cases was the same age and also white male.

—Average take in robberies was $440. About 41 per cent of Texas robberies are solved.

—Nearly 20 percent of the 187,182 burglaries were committed without need for force, and more than half were committed in daylight — the vast bulk in private residences.

Allowable Set Texas Railroad Commission set the July oil production allowable — again at 100 per cent.

Commissioner Jim Langdon noted the U.S. is importing 38 per cent of the crude oil it needs, but said the nation could become self-sufficient if "willing to pay the price."

Langdon also proposed storage of synthetic oils, and said he will spell out his plan in writing.

Total nominations of Texas crude oil purchasers for July were 3,915,851 barrels a day, a decrease of 26,543 barrels from this month.

AG Opinions

Bulk of a Mexico State School investigative report is not available to legislators or the public since it deals with personal medical records, Atty. Gen. John Hill held.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

—A telephone company is authorized to lay buried telephone lines within the right-of-way of a county road without the approval of the commissioners court.

However, the company must place its lines in such manner as not to inconvenience the public in use of public roads.

—A county has no present authority to enact land use regulations for flood-prone areas unless it qualified for participation in the National Flood Insurance Program of June 30, 1970.

—Political subdivisions which are self insurers under the Workmen's Compensation laws are liable for the gross premium tax on insurers.

—A soil and water conservation district may deposit its funds in interest-bearing accounts in a state or national bank, but it may not purchase certificates of deposit. Nor may it deposit its funds in a savings and loan association.

Courts Speak

The U.S. Supreme Court ordered an indefinite stay of execution for James Paul Burns, condemned Texas murderer, pending his appeal to the top court. Burns' stay by a state court would have run out June 24.

Short Shorts

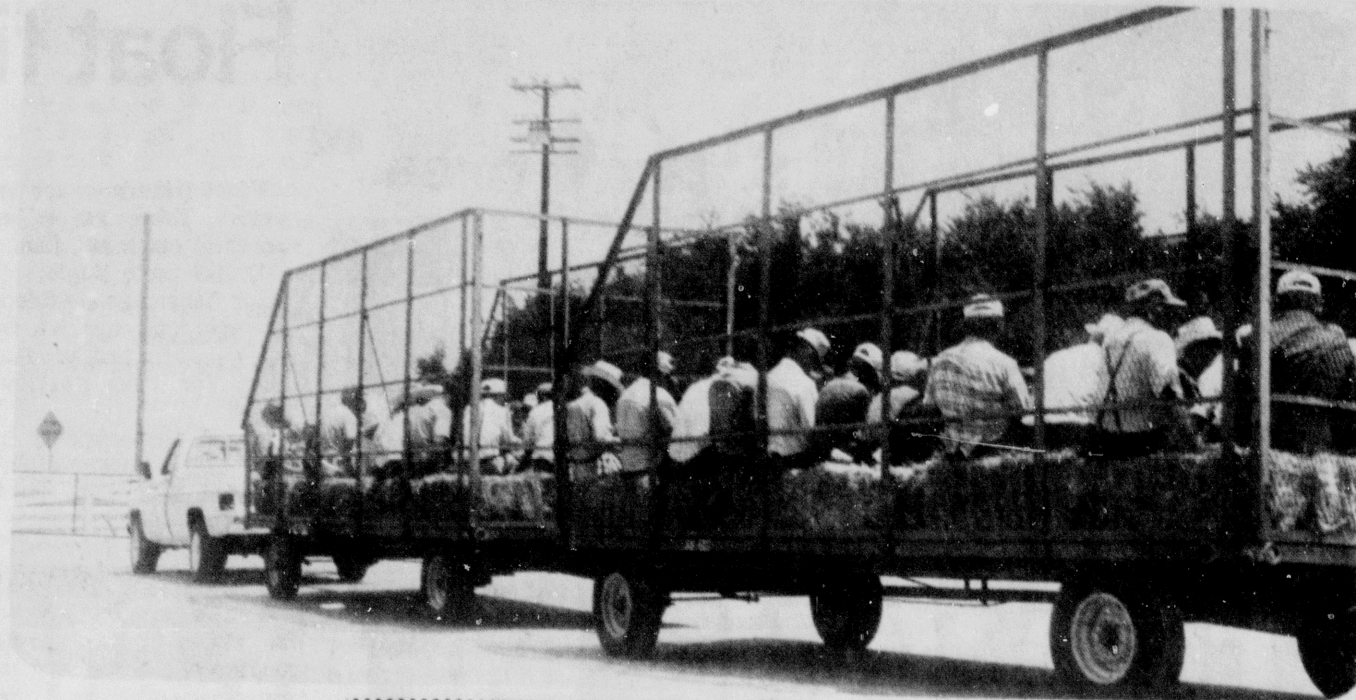

Texas Water Development Board is monitoring cloud seeding operations in Castro, Swisher, Hale, Hockley, Lamb, Bailey, Farmer, Deaf Smith, Randall and Lubbock counties.

A $200,000 community center and museum honoring the late former Gov. Coke R. Stevenson at Junction is being planned through a private solicitation of funds.

GRAND TOUR — Nearly 2,000 persons showed up for the 15th annual field day at the Stiles Farm Foundation in Thrall on Tuesday, many taking this tour of cotton and grain sorghum experiments in the fields. The 3,200 acre Stiles Farm is a demonstration farm operated by Texas A&M University for the Central Texas Blackland area. Interested farmers toured the new fish hatchery, examined a farm equipment display, asked questions of assembled agriculture experts, listened to a speech by House Speaker Bill Clayton and helped themselves to a barbecue dinner. Not a discouraging word was heard about the intermittent showers.

Georgetown man judges cattle in South America

Mr. and Mrs. LaRue Douglas of Georgetown have just returned from Colombia, South America, where Mr. Douglas was the Brahman Cattle Judge for the 19th Annual Fair and Livestock Exposition at Monteria, Colombia. The couple spent several days in Monteria and Bogota as well as a visit to Panama on their return trip home. Even though the Douglasses enjoyed their trip they were quoted as saying "There is no place like home."

Area students Loose steer driven forcibly earn master's back to Rodeo Arena degree from UT

Two Williamson County students were among 465 University of Texas at Austin students to be awarded master's degrees at the close of the 1977 spring semester. Gay Ronda Admire of Georgetown received a master of science degree in nursing. Mary Pat O'Malley of Liberty Hill earned a master of arts degree. Master's degree recipients were announced by Dr. Irwin C. Lieb, vice president and dean of graduate studies.

Festivities, fun, frivolity — all characterize Western Week.

But all is not "fun and games," as several stout-hearted folk attempted to subdue a 500 lb. steer last Thursday.

The Georgetown police department even got into the act. The chain-of-events leading to forcibly subduing the rebellious rascal were as follows:

Officers Shirley and Loney were on routine patrol and observed Fire Chief Les Bunte, Bob Purl, and Curtis Anderson trying to corner and subdue the escapee from the rodeo stockyard.

According to Bunte,

"We'd returned from the dance when we saw this steer on the loose, and decided we'd better do something."

While attempting to corral the wily beast, a patrol unit and Bob Clayton's vehicle tried to herd the husky steer back to the rodeo.

Initial attempts were not very successful and it was deemed necessary for Les Bunte (with assistance from Bob Purl, Officers Shirley and Loney, and Curtis Anderson) to bulldog the burly beast.

Unlike the old Rawhide series in which Frankie Lane sang "head em' up and move em' out," this animal was in no mood to be pushed — in no mood to be moved.

After a lengthy struggle the steer was brought to his knees and led forcefully to the rodeo arena.

Our congratulations to those who persevered — sorry that we don't have any ribbons to award. Just a verbal pat on the back.

Taste Treats

By Oline Behrens

I guess when just two women get together or ten women, or more... whether it be Saigon, Timbuctoo, Zanaibar, or Hawaii... they eventually get around to talking their favorite recipes! And, such an easy, good recipe came out of a conversation recently at the airport in Hawaii.

Mary and Charles Forbes had a great two weeks trip to Hawaii and other points of interest nearby and on their return trip home at the airport in Hawaii Mary, quite by chance, landed a good, new easy recipe to share in Taste Treats.

As Mary was waiting to board the plane she overheard two ladies talking about a new, easy, good recipe one of them had just gotten and Mary eased over to them and said, "Oh, I'm always in search of easy recipes and I couldn't help but overhear your conversation, could you share your recipe with me?" And sure 'nough... Mary, not only getting a good recipe, found out that one of the ladies had attended Southwestern University and so had her husband and while in school here had known Ellagene Eanes Lott (Mrs. Bill Lott) — it's a small world after all, isn't it?

The Forbes had a simply marvelous trip and Charles has been sporting a handsome white and brown sport shirt he got on the island.

Also visited with Brenda Grimm in the Beauty Shop last week and she and her husband Mike also recently returned from their vacation trip to Hawaii. They were gone about ten days and Brenda had a glowing account of Hawaii... it's the place to go, they all say! She brought back a crate of pineapple and had samples of it to taste at the shop last Thursday... Mohalo!

Hawaiian Butter Cup Tarts
Buy one package of Peanut Butter Cookie Roll (refrigerated)

1 package Reese's Peanut Butter Cups (miniature size, about 25-30 to package) (Candy wrapped in fluted brown paper and gold foil) — refrigerate so they will be firm to work with.

Cut the cookie dough in about 3/4 inch slices and then cut each slice in 4 pieces and then drop each small piece in a miniature muffin tin. Bake as per instructions on cookie package (about 8 min.) Just as soon as you take the muffin tins out of the oven — immediately plop one of the cold Reese's cups (sans the brown paper and the gold foil) into the center of the hot cookie muffins (be sure and push it down hard). The sides of the hot cookies sorta come up around the candy (it melts into cookie) and makes a tart. Top each tart with a toasted nut — almond, pecan, or if you could be so lucky — macadamia nuts (straight from Hawaii) or they can, for a price, be found at supermarkets.

Cool 5-6 minutes, then remove from tins with knife.

Mary says they freeze nicely and are good freshly baked or frozen. Charles prefers them frozen. There they are right in the freezer—ready to serve or take to a friend. Mary brought some by for grandsons Will and Wess and me to taste Tuesday morning! Yummie.

Mary also experimented and made bigger tarts in the big muffin tins, using the whole 3/4 inch slice and 2 Reese's Peanut Butter Cups in each one.

I can't wait to try them but time ran out plus 2 grandsons!

The easy way to do things this summer suits us all, I'm sure. ALOHA.

Granger Navy fireman tours Philippines

Navy Fireman Apprentice Alvin D. Luckey, son of Mrs. Estella B. Fields of Granger, recently completed a seven-week goodwill cruise in the Western Pacific.

He is serving as a crewmember aboard the guided missile cruiser USS Oklahoma City, homeported in Yokosuka, Japan. The Oklahoma City is the flagship of the commander of the U. S. Seventh Fleet.

The Oklahoma City is serving a dual role as a goodwill ambassador and a combat ready unit of the Seventh Fleet.

He and his fellow Oklahoma City crewmembers, visited Manila and Subic Bay in the Republic of the Philippines and Kaoshing, the Republic of China, in conjunction with the fleet's mission of maintaining American presence in the Western Pacific.

He and his shipmates donated their time to such civic action projects as repairing a local library, repainting a children's home, and participating in sporting events with local teams.

The Oklahoma City is 610 feet long and carries a crew of approximately 1,200 officers and enlisted men, in addition to more than 200 personnel of the Seventh Fleet staff. She is outfitted with guns, a surface-to-air missile launcher and a landing platform for light helicopters.

He joined the Navy in June 1975.

FUN WITH FUNDAMENTALS — Jim Mallon, Southwestern baseball coach, has been teaching younger players the fine points of the game for the past two weeks in a special baseball camp in San Gabriel Park. The boys were especially excited about this final day of practice because they heard a rumor that there was going to be a watermelon treat for them after the workout (there was).

Float fishermen

Hardy, innovative

Float fishermen are innovators. They have to be in order to catch any fish. Unlike lake anglers, the river fisherman is seldom in one spot long enough to work out a pattern and lure that is best for that particular place. So he experiments until the lucky combination of method and lure is discovered.

One of the most successful types of lures used by float fishermen seeking bass and panfish is the spinner. And while the usual weighted spinning lures work fine, a bucktail fly and spinner combo, similar to that used by flycasters, is a deadly lure for stream fishing. The spinner/bucktail can be adapted to spinning and spincasting tackle. The trick is to make the lure heavy enough to cast accurately, and also to descend in the water deep enough to tempt fish from beneath logs and rocks.

The current, and the speed of your boat floating downstream, play a part in how quickly the lure reaches the fish.

Again borrowing from the flyfisherman, you can add a strip of lead wire to the shaft of the spinner to increase the weight of the lure. Be careful to wind it on so that it will not impede the revolving blade.

If lead wire isn't handy, small split-shot can be substituted, although it must be pinched on the line ahead of the spinner.

A large, full-bodied bucktail fly is attached behind the spinner. Brown, black or grey with a touch of red showing are excellent colors.

Size depends upon whether you're after bass or panfish.

Steven Shepard returns a shot in his boy's singles match with Mike Carter Friday. Carter won the match 6-0, 6-3.

G'town girl loses twice in Lions' tennis finals

Diedra Zoerner defeated Allison Chapman of Georgetown 6-2, 7-5 Friday for the girl's 18 singles championship in the Lions' invitational tennis tournament.

Chapman then lost the finals of the girl's 16 singles division to Diane Welch 6-0, 6-0. She was to play Sandra Busby of Georgetown for second place either Friday afternoon or Saturday.

Clark Snell of Georgetown was to meet Brian Zoerner of Austin in the boy's 16 singles finals Saturday morning to complete the junior events.

Snell beat Brian Castaneda in the semifinals 6-0, 6-2, while Zoerner topped Tim Magnus of Georgetown 2-6, 6-2, 6-4.

Adult matches were scheduled to begin Saturday, and continue through Sunday.

The second annual tournament, sponsored by the Evening Lions Club, is held to raise money for Lions Club service projects.

Money for the projects comes from the $5 per person per event entry fee. Trophies for the champions in all events were donated by Georgetown merchants.

Standout to play for Bucs

Eugenia Liberum, a basketball and track star from Thrall High School, has signed to play basketball at Southwestern this year. Liberum, 6-1, was an all district guard for two years and placed third the last three years in the high jump in the state track meet. SU Coach Glada Munt said that she will start working with Liberum on her shooting. "She's an outstanding athlete and we expect her to develop quickly," she said. "She'll be playing the post position and we expect her to add considerable strength to our inside game."

Two more players have indicated they will join Southwestern University's basketball team next season. Coach John Edwards announced this week.

Mark Carroll, an all-Central Texas selection from Westlake High School, and Tracy Davis, a junior college transfer from Alabama, have both announced intentions to enroll at Southwestern.

Carroll, a 6-2 guard who helped his team to a 19-7 record and second place in District 13AAAA last season, averaged 18 points and seven rebounds per game. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Carroll of 801 Canyon Creek, Austin.

Davis was the most valuable player and an all state selection in high school. A 6-4 forward, he started for the Lurleen B.

Wallace State Junior College team for two years and was a first team selection in the South Alabama Junior College Conference last season. He averaged 20 points and five rebounds per game.

Parade completes route during rain

UMBRELLAS DIDN'T HELP these girls, representing the Bastrop Chamber of Commerce, but, they continued to smile and wave to the crowd.

DRENCHED Eagle cheerleaders try to generate a little spirit, and probably a little warmth, in the soggy Thursday parade.

WHILE IT POURED on the parade, this very wet girl tried to escape some of the wet misery underneath a raincoat and hat.

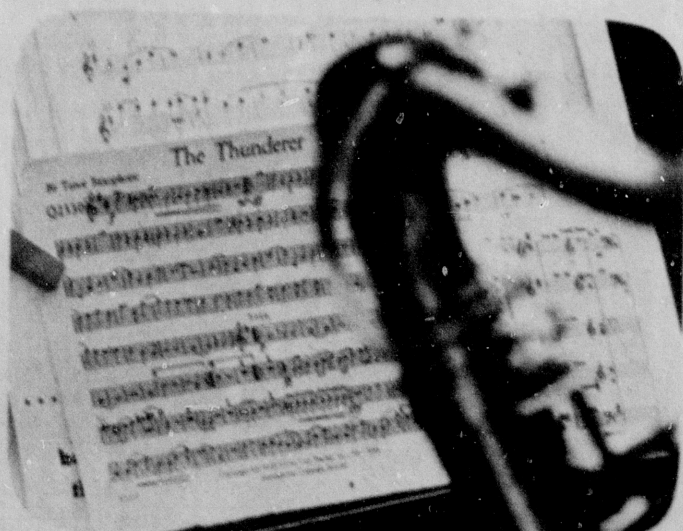

AN INFLATED TOWER of colorful balloons rises above the Eagle band at the afternoon musical interlude.

Photos by Damond Benningfield

... While the band played

RODNEY KLETT, the high school band director, gets in on the music during a concert on the square Thursday afternoon. Jan Wakefield sits to Klett's left. The concert, which preceded the parade, was brought to a quick halt by the heavy rains.

THE THUNDERER was perhaps an indication of things to come. The lively Sousa march, selection of the band, preceded slightly louder thunder, lightning and heavy rains.

... and outlaws met their fate

BANDITS make a hasty getaway from the Georgetown Savings and Loan after a Thursday hold-up. But the outlaws, Rick Dennis (l) and Steve Benton, were unsuccessful in their break for freedom as lawmen gunned them down in Main St.

An effort to grow up: TV's early years

by James Napier

We're a "plugged in" generation. The "wired city" impinges on and impacts our lives. The rapid advance in electronic communications has shrunk our world. Instantaneous communication renders us a part of "the global village."

It's hard to comprehend that change has come so suddenly and swiftly to our lives. Twenty-five years ago television was a mere infant in swaddling clothes, clumsily groping about, learning to take its first steps.

Today we take it all for granted. A flick of the switch—presto, instantaneous image. We expect it to be there. Our children rarely question how or why these electronic marvels came to be a part of their lives. Like the air we breathe, we feel its effects but know little of its origins.

The announcer on the old Lone Ranger program used to say "return with us now to those thrilling days of yester year as the Lone Ranger rides again."

For a moment we briefly flashback and grasp a brief glimpse of those early days of television, a remarkable contrast to the sophisticated, polished programs of today. In 1946, as World War II ended, television sets again went on sale. No longer did our national resources need to be converted to war use. The opening of the U.N. Security Council was televised. CBS and NBC plunged ahead with color TV demonstration—yes, as early as 1946!

The opening of Congress was televised for the first time in 1947. The Kraft Television Theater series began. Meanwhile the "go ahead" on color was nixed by the FCC until a superior system to the one CBS proposed was devised.

Philadelphia became a convention site because of television cable in 1948. This same year the FCC began the famous freeze on TV licenses saying no further applications would be accepted until channel allocation throughout the country had been thoroughly studied.

Those owning television sets in the few cities having stations were counting their blessings. Crowds flocked to store windows to gaze at the flickering image with the same fascination as the world later viewed man's first strides on the moon.

An inauguration was telecast for the first time in 1949. Television stations, hard-pressed for programs, relied on old grade B movies, wrestling matches, and local live programming. A station in Oklahoma even resorted to focusing a camera on a goldfish bowl for several hours each morning.

Not exactly the kind of entertainment to set the pulse beating rapidly!

As 1950 dawned, television had captured the public's fancy. Radio was plunging in popularity. Many "big name" luminaries realized they faced a crucial decision: stick with radio and get washed out or plunge into television.

Among those who dived in: Milton Berle, Sid Caesar, Red Skelton, Jack Benny, Bob Hope, Burns & Allen.

Ed Sullivan began introducing new talent on his popular Toast of the Town.

Late 1951 the TODAY program with Dave Garroway started the morning for many Americans. Its intended purpose as envisioned by NBC executive Sylvester Weaver was to inform people about all the significant news that occurred while they slept. Since many stations didn't begin broadcasting until the afternoon hours, NBC thought Weaver's scheme bizarre and far-out. Weaver pushed and TODAY became as American as chemical apple pie.

In television cities, movie attendance dwindled drastically. A wave of theater closings resulted. Radio, in pitiful shape, was scouting about for some kind of format to survive. Specialized audience radio came into vogue (country & western, easy listening, all news). With the rise in record sales was the concurrent ascent of the disc jockey to "stardom level."

A DJ, playing or not playing a record, could make or break that song. Charges of payola and plugola became widespread. Payoffs to the disc jockey were rumored as commonplace occurrences.

The Federal Communications Commission lifted the freeze on new TV licenses in 1952 and a wave of applications came in, the first being granted to Lyndon Johnson's KTBC in Austin. The first educational station began the same year in Houston.

Hundreds of television stations rushed to reach the air. The FCC became inundated with floods of applicants. License applications were again being processed. A license was viewed by many as a legal means of printing money.

This was the year of Nixon's famous checkers speech in which he denied receiving politically-motivated gifts from anybody except—as he recalled—his wife Pat did receive a lovely dog that Trisha named Checkers and he wasn't about to give it back because it would break Trisha's heart. This speech, watched closely by Eisenhower, launched Nixon's political career into orbit. Ike decided Nixon was unjustly accused and kept him on the GOP ticket.

TV gave full scale coverage to Ike's inauguration in 1953. The merger of ABC and Paramount Theaters unleashed a flood of old movies which program-starved stations ran over and over.

I Love Lucy became a firmly established institution, changing the concept of live television. Once a program was shown live all potential for future profits were gone. Preserved on film, a program's

TV Dialogue

DOC -- Can you tell me something about Michael Gregory of the daytime soap opera General Hospital? Is he married? His birthdate? And where can I write to him? Patricia L. Johnson, Gulfport, Miss.

Michael Gregory, who plays the dauntless Dr. Webber, is still a bachelor. His birthday is November 26, but like most actors the year has been withheld from the date. Gregory hails from Brooklyn, N.Y., but later grew up in California. His professional career started as a stand-up comic, while he was studying for his degree in theatre arts at San Francisco State. He later served as a ski instructor for two years in the Army. Sprung from that chore he got roles in such movies as "Ricco," "Hey Good Looking" and "Two Minute Warning." He has done numerous appearances on TV as well. He's a black belt in karate and is a trained hypnotist. He is also interested in mind development -- both scientific and occult. That should hold you for a while.

"Charlie" Signs On A New "Angel"

Young, beautiful Cheryl Ladd arrived in Los Angeles from Huron, S.D., seven years ago, and landed a job as a singing voice in the Hanna-Barbera cartoon series, "Josie and the Pussycats." Since then, she has racked up over 100 TV commercials and appeared in an impressive list of television series, including "Code R," "The Rookies," "Switch," "Ironside," "The Partridge Family," "Happy Days," "Police Woman," and the ABC Movie of the Week, "Satan's School for Girls." She also appeared in the feature films "Jamaica Reef" and "Marriage of a Young Stockbroker."

Her parents and most of her family still live in Huron where her father is an engineer with the Chicago Northwestern Railroad Co. She has brothers Brian, 18, and Seth, 8. Her older sister, Mary Ann, is married and has two sons, Billy Bob and John.

Cheryl has been married four years to actor David Alan Ladd, son of the late actor Alan Ladd and Sue Carol Ladd of Palm Springs, Calif. Cheryl and David are the parents of one child, Jordan Elizabeth Ladd, 2.

Cheryl, a natural blonde with blue-green eyes, began her career as Cheryl Stoppelmoor, her maiden name. As a youngster she studied voice and dancing, originally aspiring to a career in music. Encouraged by her father, she entertained

CHERYL LADD has been signed to the cast of "Charlie's Angels." Ms. Ladd will play Kris Munroe, younger sister of Jill Munroe, played by Ms. Fawcett-Majors. "Charlie's Angels," the highest rated new series of the 1976-77 season, airs on Wednesdays (10-11 p.m., EDT), but will move to a new time slot in the fall and will air on Wednesdays (9-10 p.m., EDT)

family and friends by singing, and playing guitar. As a teen-ager, she toured South Dakota with a local singing group, "The Music Shop." Through an appearance on "The Tonight Show" she attracted the attention of recording industry executives, later signing with Capitol Records.

The 5'4", 103 pound beauty (measurements: 35-23-34) loves physical activity, including tennis, gymnastics and scuba diving.

★ ★ TV's Early Years

profit potential was enormous. Capturing the image on celluloid for syndication was a license to print money.

Milton Berle, the "king of comedy," rode the TV waves unchallenged until an obscure priest—Fulton J. Sheen—siphoned away enough viewers to cause Uncle Miltie's popular series canceled.

In 1954, year of the Army-McCarthy hearings, Warner Brothers and Disney contracted to produce shows for ABC. Many felt that ABC's push for profits prompted NBC and CBS to become much more ruthless in the competitive arena. They axed excellent live dramas and documentaries and geared up for production of violent or comedic programs to keep pace with ABC, at that time a lowly but struggling third in the ratings.

1955 newsman Edward R. Murrow was sitting at home one evening watching TV prior to his own See It Now program. He was startled to see a new game show.

Murrow predicted the popularity of this 10:00 quiz show ("The $64,000 Question") would cause his own 10:30 time slot to melt away. He was right.

$64,000 Question swept the country. Then followed $64,000 Challenge, Twenty-One, Dotto, Tic Tac Dough. $64,000 Question skyrocketed sales for a little known cosmetic company—Revlon, now a household word.

The Communist scare caused many performers "blacklisted," many of whom could no longer find work even though they had no Communist connections. Suspicion was enough. Accusation or rumor meant end of one's career. CBS even instituted a loyalty oath.

Over 140 stars became "untouchables," most of whom suddenly disappeared from the limelight.

Not until popular CBS personality John Henry Faulk employed famous trial lawyer Louis Nizer and took the "crusading patriots" to court were perpetrators of the scare like Vincent Hartness and Syracuse grocery chain owner Lawrence Johnson exposed.

Edward R. Murrow's revelations concerning Senator Joseph McCarthy ("Tail Gunner Joe"), then the subsequent televised trial and censure by his colleagues provided live and gripping drama for the public.

For many stations, "televising" or "showing" the live trial day-after day eased the burden of casting about for new programs, especially for the Dumont Network (which lasted five years) and struggling ABC.

Faulk's 1956 lawsuit is notable because he decided not to suffer in silence but to meet the blacklists head-on. Faulk won. Familiar faces again appeared on the screen. Others, not so fortunate, died prematurely because their careers had been destroyed.

1956 saw Don Larson pitch the only perfect world series game. The fall season brought Cheyenne to TV. Cheyenne was followed by an avalanche of westerns, all shaped out of the same cookie sheet: Maverick, Bat Masterson, Wyatt Earp, The Rifleman, and others. Chet Huntly and David Brinkley teamed up for the first time and the co-anchor became a fixture.

Nikita Khrushchev—on the heels of spectacular Sputnik launchings—showed up in America in 1957 stomping about the country, appearing on Face the Nation.

1958 brought the resignation of an FCC Commissioner—Richard A. Mack, - bribery evidence forcing him out. See It Now with Edward R. Murrow left the airwaves.

1959 saw the famous Nixon-Khrushchev "kitchen debate" in Moscow. Khrushchev's U.S. tour was widely covered. Banging his shoe on the UN table, and voicing a child-like desire to visit Disneyland, Khrushchev—leader of the Communist world—was a strange yet curious sight to American eyes, especially in the wake of Communist scares and blacklisting. TV covered fully his visit.

The most shocking revelation of the TV season occurred when report of quiz rigging were substantiated. Many contestants were fed answers for "entertainment purposes" designed to defeat opponents whom sponsors and producers saw as liabilities in the race for ratings.

For a time the quiz show departed the networks. In their wake came a flock of public-service programs including the very informative CBS Reports. 1960 brought The Untouchables to ABC with huge chunks of violence written into scripts to "soup them up" and garner more viewers. ABC made significant gains on NBC and CBS by concentrating on westerns and private eye thrillers.

With James Aubry now installed as President of CBS (his stock options being based on the profits he brought the network) and Robert Kitner at NBC, the race for profits and numbers was on. It was all out war.

Night after night millions sat glued watching an incredible array of knifings, beatings, murders, robberies, fires, chase scenes, or canned laughter beating, pounding, and crashing into the eardrums to support weak comedies.

Radio, meanwhile, was languishing. With the rise to stardom of the DJ, plugging, promoting, playing "hit after hit," radio was rising from the rubble and ashes.

Specialized audience formats were reaching target audiences (country & western, solid gold, all news). Gone were the old comedians, stage dramas, serials. In their place a 60 minute log might show numerous references to station ID's, weather, time, contests, top hits, all pumped out at breakneck speed with shrieks, bangs, gongs, whistles, howls—anything to "keep it tight," "keep it movin'," making sure "the beat goes on."

The days of innocence were over. The Untouchables led the parade for violence on TV. Yet TV had its great moments in 1960: the Nixon-Kennedy debates, televising the Khrushchev-Castro meeting on the sidewalks of Harlem—two notable examples.

Television, now the gawky adolescent, too often was nothing more than bubble gum for the eyes, a twentieth century medicine show.

Many wondered to what extent television was shaping the pictures in our heads including our expectations of what the "good life" was all about. Was television, in the interest of profits and ratings, showing violence on a scale previously unreported.

The uneasy 60's were yet ahead.

For Ken Olfson, as for most actors, weeks can go by without the phone ringing and then, suddenly, several people are interested at once. On the day I spoke to him, he had been interviewed for a scene in the new Henry Winkler film "The One And Only," based on the life of Gorgeous George, and he was scheduled to read a second time for Liza Minelli's new Broadway show.

Speaking of his career, Olfson said that the role which has brought him the most publicity so far is the part of Terry Folsom, Nancy Walker's secretary on the now cancelled "The Nancy Walker Show." Olfson says the part has brought him "a lot of attention because I played a homosexual character." He adds that he has gotten "more attention from the press" than from the public because of the nature of the role. "Nobody who recognizes me has mentioned a word about it," he says. "It has had no bearing on my life outside the show." Olfson thinks the role attracted attention because "it happened to be the first regular gay role on a series."

Olfson notes that, because of the role, he "went from absolute obscurity to having my sex life publicly discussed." He was referring to questions asked by the media concerning his own sexual orientation. Olfson says he "saw no reason not to answer the question. You can't play the first running gay on a TV series without being asked that kind of question . . . it goes with the territory." (For the curious: his answer was that he "has had bisexual experiences.")

Olfson got his professional start at Green Mansions, a singles resort in the Catskills, at which Sid Ceasar and Carol Burnett also worked early in their careers. Olfson says he did "a stand-up comedy act" and "had to do a different show each night because the people would come and stay for a week. The audience was the same each night, so the show had to be different."

Before that, he went to Syracuse University for two years and studied at the American Theatre Wing for two years. He has also studied with Joan Darling. "We grew up together in Boston," he says. "She and her husband wrote my nightclub act . . . She was a director on 'Mary Hartman' . . . She helped create it and directed most of the first months of the show." Olfson has made guest appearances on "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman."

He speaks of his training as having been largely improvisational. "I like improvisation very much," he says. "The ability to think and be funny and clever in front of a camera is valuable. It's a draining kind of work, but when it works its very, very good." He added that he has found this training helpful even when he "gets written material."

Olfson created the role of the psychiatrist in "Scuba Duba," and played it on Broadway for 617 performances. It was a long run, and he says his training in improvisation was helpful because he could "vary it from night to night . . . I couldn't change the lines, but I could keep it fresh." Speaking of "Scuba Duba" he said it was "a good cast every one enjoyed each other." "Scuba Duba" was his "first New York experience," and from it came television commercials, from which he "made a living for many years."

In one of those television commercials he played a raisin. He says he got the part "because I was fat." "There is nothing more depressing," he adds, "than twelve middle-aged men in a bowl of one-foot square cornflakes pretending to be raisins." Speaking of the efforts of the production crew, he says, "It cost $1200 to make the spoon. They took a swatch of real raisins to the costume people, and had cloth dyed to match the raisins. They had to send it back three times to get the right color." Barney Martin and David Doyle worked with him as raisins. According to Olfson, "Martin still says that he was a raisin and I was a raisinette, because he was fatter than I was."

Olfson took his first acting lessons when he was eleven, along with his twin brother, who is now a writer. "I was very shy and very fat," Olfson says of himself. At the beginning, he says, his brother "was a better actor. I pulled curtains and did props a lot." Olfson's first part was as "the front end of a cow in 'Jack and the Beanstalk.'"

This was at the Boston Children's Theatre, which he describes as "one of the finest children's theatres in the country." The children act at the Boston Children's Theatre, he explained, rather than its being a case of adults performing for children. "We toured the playgrounds in summer," he says, "doing two performances a day . . . two different plays in a truck theatre . . . I learned a lot of discipline." He says his first teacher still watches him on television, and that "it's a great satisfaction to give pleasure to your earliest teachers."

His experiences at the Boston Children's Theatre, he says, "gave me respect for what goes on on a stage . . . there is nothing haphazard." He remembers he also "won a lot of oratorical contests" and that they used to "put arrows on the speeches to show when to make a gesture." "When we were ten, my brother and I used to sing on the radio. We still sing when we drive along the Connecticut roads," he adds, speaking of his visits to his brother who now lives in Connecticut.

COUPLES -- When were Sonny & Cher married, and since Cher is always kidding Sonny about his height I'd like to know how tall he is? M.J., Scarese, New Brunswick, N.J.

Ah, young love. Sonny & Cher tied the knot in 1964, before they had to deal with fame and fortune and faltering TV series. But nothing lasts forever. Sonny claims to be 5'7". Cher is 5'6".

Strangely Possessed: JOHN DAVID CARSON guest-stars as a spiritually possessed young man who masquerades as a female and commits acts of terror against elderly women, in the "Police Woman" episode, "Night of the Full Moon," Tuesday, June 28 (9-10 p.m.), on NBC.

T.U. Star Scene

Cheryl Ladd has been signed to join Kate Jackson, Farrah Fawcett-Majors and Jaclyn Smith in ABC's "Charley's Angels." Ms. Ladd will play Kris Munroe, the younger sister of Jill Munroe played by Ms. Fawcett-Majors. "Charley's Angels" began production on June 1 for its second season.

Ruth Gordon, who stars in a CBS dramatic special, "The Prince of Central Park," broadcast Friday, June 17, says she will never retire because "there's so much to do." The 80-year-old actress, who is best known for her Oscar-winning role in "Rosemary's Baby," began her career in 1915. "My first speaking part was in the role of Nibs in 'Peter Pan,'" she recalls, "and my first line was: 'What's a checkbook?'"

"The Kallikaks," a new half-hour comedy about a family's schemes to beat the system, will premiere on NBC this summer. David Huddleston stars as J.T. Kallikak, head of a Southern family, operating a decrepit, two-pump gas station in the middle of nowhere (California).

Darryl McCullough, Moose in the ABC comedy series "San Pedro Bums," which will premiere next fall, is preparing for his role by learning to box. One of the show's episodes will feature him in the ring. Darryl's boxing coach will be Eddie Foy III, ABC's director of casting, who, as a youth, fought in Golden Gloves competitions.

Bishop John Neumann of Philadelphia, who died in 1860, will be canonized by Pope Paul VI in a ceremony to be broadcast as a CBS News Religious Special on Sunday, June 19. The two-hour ceremony, transmitted live via satellite from St. Peter's Square in the Vatican, will include a procession of gifts including wines, a porcelain bowl filled with rice (to symbolize Bishop Neumann's concern for the poor), and clothing and medicine, which represent his interest in needy families. Bishop Neumann, who visited prisons and traveled throughout Pennsylvania consoling the poor and sick, was the founder of the parochial school system in the U.S. He was beatified in 1963.

Shaun Cassidy, who stars in "The Hardy Boys Mystery Hour" over ABC, considers himself a musician first and an actor second. Cassidy is elated over the sales of his new single, "Da Doo Ron Ron," which was released last month. According to Billboard magazine, the record is on its way to becoming a smash hit.

Speaking of music, Tom and John Keane, two young singing brothers, will host their own half-hour musical variety series for four weeks this summer. "The Keane Brothers Show" will premiere Friday, August 12, on CBS. Tom, 12, who began singing at the age of 2, is best known for his tribute to President Carter's daughter Amy ("Show the World You're There.") John, 11, who began to accompany his brother on the drums at age 9, also plays guitar, trumpet and vibes.

A THIRSTY LAND

Men have a thirst and a longing for goodness and righteousness. Even the most parched soul is touched by acts of kindness, forgiveness, and love. Jesus said, "Whosoever drinketh of the water that I shall give him shall never thirst; but the water that I shall give him shall be in him a well of water springing up into everlasting life."

May all who are thirsty for a oneness with man and with God find satisfaction and fulfillment by attending church.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny, the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

St. Helen's Catholic Church holds religious training class

In two weeks of religious classes, the children of St. Helen's Catholic Church were privileged to receive training from three nuns of the religious order of the School Sister of Notre Dame of San Antonio.

Even though each nun is from a different town they all belong to the same religious group. Sister Rosaline is from San Antonio, Sister Mary Agnes is from Mobile, Alabama and Sister Marie Richard is from Morrilton, Arkansas.

The theme of the summer religion school was "Celebrate Life" and was a combination of religion, various activities, film strips and music.

Each week ended with a special Mass and a picnic. While the nuns were in the Georgetown parish, each noon and evening meal was provided by someone in the congregation.

Teachers for the school were Janie Bracamontez, Sylvia Thomas, Margaret Torrez, Colette Collins, Mary Miranda, Frances Felan and Shirley Reeder. Linda Cisneros was in charge of the office.

Teenager aides were Pete Castenada, Jesse Bracamontez, Jaime Felan, Jon Felan, Melissa Hurtado, Nancy Rothhammer, Laurie Rothhammer, Chyrel Howry and Chris Puhlovich.

Mrs. Marjorie Mulvey was in charge of organizing the meals for the nuns during their stay here. Those serving the noon meals were Mrs. Tommie Martine and Tina, Mrs. Joan Rothhammer, Mrs. Frances Mosel, Mrs. Janie Ochoa and Melissa, Mrs. Margaret Sukup and Joanie, Mrs. Mirabella, Mrs. Linda Spacek and Mrs. Margie LaFleurs.

Those hosting the nuns in their homes for the evening meals were Mr. and Mrs. Marcos Ramos, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Puhlovich, Mrs. Georgia Howry, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Colgrove, Mr. and Mrs. Don Collier, Mr. and Mrs. James Porfiorio, Mr. and Mrs. Danny Vasquez, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Felan, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Bracamontez, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Zavala, Mr. and Mrs. Abelardo Torrez, Mr. and Mrs. Juan Lopez and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Zavala. Father Palermo, St.

ST. HELEN'S congregation members, Mrs. Ralph Felan, Jamie Felan, Mary Miranda and Linda Cisneros, were among the many who participated in a two-week training program at the church.

Helen's pastor, was very response to the vocation pleased with the good classes.

North Texas State names honor roll

Dr. Miles Anderson, vice-president for academic affairs, at North Texas State University, has named 1,387 students to the spring semester honor roll.

Williamson County students listed on the 3.5 honor roll at NTSU were Jessamy T. Forswall, daughter of Jess A. Todd of Georgetown; and Charles A. Judge, son of Charles A. Judge, of Jollyville.

Some 348 students earned all "A's" to make the 4.0 honor list, and 1,039 achieved the 3.5 listing, which includes those students whose grade average is midway between an "A" and a "B."

DISCOVER 4-H

By CAROLYN BONNER & EDWARD WILKIE

EIGHT YOUTH from Williamson County will participate in District 10 Leadership Lab June 27-29. The lab will be conducted at the Texas 4-H Center at Brownwood. Those attending are: Elaine Lange, Thrall; Larry Brister and Pam Allen, Taylor; Jon Wakefield, Georgetown; Jan Hajda and Joseph Hajda, Granger; Jana Rohlack, Coupland; and Wallace Sefcik, Jonah.

These youth will attend workshops on Leadership, Communications, Nature Trail, Community Activities, Recreation, 4-H Opportunities and Record Books. Each 4-Her will participate in three of the above workshops. Along with the workshops the youth will have recreation and a time to be with youth from the other 17 counties in our District.

4-H scholarships near $4 million total — Total dollar value of scholarships awarded through National 4-H Council rose 45 percent in the five-year period 1972-77.

SCHOLARSHIPS totaling $249,500 are available this year to 4-H members who meet eligibility requirements set by the Cooperative Extension Service, which conducts the 4-H program and selects the winners. In 1972, total value of all scholarships awarded was $171,700.

The 273 scholarships offered in 1977 range from $600 to $1,000 each, with most grants at the $1,000 level. Scholarships are donated by about 45 businesses, corporations and foundations to recognize 4-H member accomplishments in project work, leadership, citizenship and community service.

Georgetown hosts Oertli family

The Oertli family held its annual reunion June 19 at the Community Center in San Gabriel Park in Georgetown.

Eighty-eight descendants of Othmar Oertli, Johann Leonhard Oertli, Magdalena Oertli Steger, and Henry Leonhard Oertli enjoyed an afternoon of fellowship and barbecue.

Ernest Oertli and Foy Hayden prepared goat, chicken, sausage and beef for the meal.

After a short memorial service presented by Lowell Morgan the business meeting was called to order by Milton Morse.

Honored for traveling the farthest distance were Mr. and Mrs. Chris Oertli of Houston. Robbin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Oertli was the youngest in attendance. Trudy Oertli was the eldest family member present.

Charles Oertli presented a treasurers report. June 25, 1978 was the date set for the next reunion. The location will again be Georgetown Community Center.

A family picture album was on display. Bessy Oertli requested that current photos be mailed to her.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Sefcik were elected to serve as president and secretary for the coming two years.

Outgoing officers and chairmen were thanked for their success in preparing the reunion.

Taylor church to present music program

The Tenth Street United Methodist Church in Taylor will present a musical program given by the R. M. Bloomquist family at 2:30 p.m. Sunday July 3.

Admission to the musical program is free but a free-will offering will be taken.

The church has recently purchased a new piano and the proceeds of the program will go to pay the balance on the piano.

The public is cordially invited to attend.

Liberty Hill NEWS

By Howard N. Wilson

The Liberty Hill VFW Post No. 8200 is a very active group of men who are very obviously interested in the advancement and welfare of the people of our community. Just one more way in which they are working for community betterment is their sponsoring of the Liberty Hill Senior Babe Ruth Baseball Team.

They are paying the entry fees, insurance, and buying the uniforms for the players. The Liberty Hill Babe Ruth Team is a member of the Centex Babe Ruth League of which Georgetown, Taylor, Elgin, Leander and Round Rock are also members.

Our Senior Babe Ruth Team split a double header in Taylor last Friday evening. Arthur Felan pitched a good game in the first round, but the team lost in a close contest by 6-4.

In the second game Liberty Hill played much better when they got 12 hits and made only 1 error. Taylor was the loser by 10-4. Donnie Johnson was the winning pitcher as he gave up only six hits and one walk. He got eleven strike outs. Jim Felan was the leading hitter with his two doubles and a triple; Eddie Brewster got a single and a triple, Robert Stephens got a triple and a single, and Arthur Felan got two singles.

At the time of this writing the record for Liberty Hill stood at 2-1 and the team is scheduled to play Leander there on Tuesday. A double header with Georgetown is scheduled to be played there starting at 6:30 Friday afternoon. Go to the games!

Babes Softball Team is composed of Sherry Hays, Janice Jones, Beth Wear, Sandi Carlisle, Donna Holder, Gayle Lenox, Debbie Sessler, Kelly Sessler, Trina Wheat, Natha Wetzel, Sheila King, Lisa Bohanan, and Shiri Holder. The team is managed by Belinda Carlisle, and is coached by Andy Pogue and Roy Montemayor.

Our town also has a women's softball team—these ladies are looking for a name, so help them choose one by taking your suggestions to Ephraim Roddy Hardware on Main Street. If your suggestion is the winning one you will get a "season ticket for two".

The women's softball team practices each Wednesday and Sunday starting at 8:30 p.m. Any lady who is interested in joining the team should call Gary Spivey at 778-5312.

Two of the dynamic young people who are interested and important in the progress of our community, Helene Delacourt and Tim Ater, both were down to visit with Mom, Dad, and me a few days ago, and I can conservatively and modestly say that we all had an enjoyable and informative conversation covering many divergent topics mainly about our community and our fine citizenry.

We feel sure that many of you are having special activities this summer which would make interesting reading. When anything newsworthy happens to, by or around you let us know—we always appreciate hearing from our "Sun Family Readers".

Mark Twain wrote this noble statement of wisdom—"The proper office of a friend is to side with you when you are in the wrong—nearly anybody will side with you when you are right!" KEEP SMILING!

Couple celebrates 70th anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Leslie, residents at the Wesleyan, were honored with an anniversary luncheon at the home Thursday, June 23.

The couple were celebrating their 70th wedding anniversary and were honored with a special music and a decorated cake.

The Leslies have lived in Georgetown for three years. They came to the Wesleyan from Walkerton, Indiana where they lived for 55 years. They are members of St. John's United Methodist Church.

Treible to handle SU fiscal affairs

Kirk Treible will be the new vice president for fiscal affairs at Southwestern University.

Treible will assume his duties on July 15, succeeding Basil A. Phillips in the post, University President Durwood Fleming announced this week.

The new vice president comes to SU after serving as acting treasurer at West Virginia Wesleyan College. Prior to that he served that school as director of special projects and in the office of admissions and the office of development of capital funds.

BEFORE becoming associated with West Virginia Wesleyan, Treible was business manager of Parkersburg Community College and assistant business manager of Wittenberg University. He was medical supply officer in the U. S. Air Force.

Treible holds a B.S. degree in business from West Virginia Wesleyan and a M.B. in management from West Virginia University.

Treible and his wife, Carol Ann, have a son, Todd, who is seven.

"We Sell Georgetown"

THE BEAT GOES ON, despite the driving rains which swept through Georgetown late Wednesday. The Fort Hood First Cavalry Division Band led the parade, with this soggy, raincoated soldier toting the bass drum. See more pictures page 6.

Wood thinks LCRA requesting too much

The Public Utility Commission is expected to rule on LCRA's request for an $8-$9 million rate hike after its present recess ending July 8.

All public hearings concerning LCRA's proposed increase were held with only briefs remaining to be filed. According to LCRA, additional funds are needed for capital improvements.

Although "capital improvements" can center around updating any equipment within the organization, the present rate request focuses primarily on building a Phase II coal-fired generating plant.

Leo Wood, Georgetown City Manager, says "We think LCRA is asking too much. I doubt LCRA will even come close to getting all it's asking for."

Wood commented that LCRA's last rate increase was to build the Phase I coal-fired generating plant in LaGrange. "At that time it raised the base rates 26 1/2%. Since we don't foresee the Public Utility Commission granting LCRA this kind of increase, and with whatever increase is granted being spread over so many customers, we think the impact on Georgetown will be minimal."

No matter how the PUC decides, we can all be certain of one thing: the days of cheap energy are gone forever.

Young conservationists begin work Monday in Georgetown

Eighteen Georgetown boys and girls begin work this Monday, the result of being hired by the Youth Conservation Corp., co-sponsored by the Department of Agriculture and the Department of Interior.

Georgetown, upon learning YCC funds were available, applied and received funding to hire the youngsters.

Fred Pond, coordinator, said the youngsters will be involved in a "work-learn" project.

They work a 30 hour week doing physical labor: "They will be building a park," says Pond.

"The youngsters will work at Blue Hole. They will be clearing land around the river, chopping trees, building pathways and walkways and nature trails, thinning out undergrowth, and putting in trash receptacles."

The program is not merely work-oriented. Ten hours each week is devoted to classes in conservation awareness and ecology.

The youngsters will be supervised by two local men who have excellent backgrounds in conservation-awareness programs: James Tippet, a high school biology teacher, and Fred Hilgeman, chemistry department of Southwestern University.

Boys and girls hired until August 12 include: Rodney Anderson, Bill Buckner, Darrell Cain, David Carter, Jeff Davis, Willie Dutcher, David King, Mike King, Cedric Kocian, Linda Lowe, Greg Miech, Brad Miller, Michael Munoz, Sheri Parker, Butch Pickens, Ozella Sedwick, Gilbert Torrez, and Dana Turner.

Jim Colbert is the director of the Georgetown YCC Program.

Fantasticks to perform at St. Edward's University

St. Edward's University Theatre will present their second production of the summer, a musical-fantasy, "The Fantasticks." This will be the first musical presented on the Mary Moody Northen arena stage. "The Fantasticks," the longest running musical in theatrical history and written by University of Texas graduates, Tom Jones and Harvey Schmidt, will star veteran character actor John Carradine in the role of Henry Albertson, an old actor.

Carradine, father of Academy Award-winner, Keith Carradine, and Kung-Fu star, David Carradine, is well known in America for his many film and stage portrayals including his memorable performance in

"The Grapes of Wrath." He has acted with stars ranging from Basil Rathbone to Henry Fonda.

Special guest star for "The Fantasticks" will be Sherri Spillane, wife of famed mystery writer, Mickey Spillane. Ms. Spillane, whose roles include Dorothy in "The Wizard of Oz" and Nellie in "South Pacific," will recreate her off-Broadway role of Louisa, the starry-eyed young heroine who seeks her hero, Matt.

St. Edward's faculty member, Bil Pfuderer, will portray the character El Gallo as well as direct the production. John Bennett, who has worked with opera star, Beverly Sills, and most recently has adapted and arranged the music for a new scripting of Dicken's "A Christmas Carol," will be musical director for "The Fantasticks."

University of Texas student, Sam Shipp, who was last seen on the Zachary Scott stage as Olin Potts in their production of "The Last Meeting of the White Magnolias," will play Bellamy, Louisa's father.

Another local actor, Austin Lawrence, will portray Hucklebee, Matt's father. Austin audiences will remember his portrayal of Harry Van in the Paramount production of "Idiots Delight."

Lawrence has acted with such stars as Joe E. Brown, Hugh O'Brien, Pat O'Brien, Dan Dailey and Betty Grable. His first professional stint was a production of "Anything Goes" which was directed by Tom Jones, co-author of "The Fantasticks."

There is one change in the performance schedule for the summer season. On Saturdays there is a "Twilight" performance at 6 p.m. and a late evening performance at 9:30 p.m. Regular evening performances are at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday through Friday and also on Sunday. A Sunday matinee is offered at 2:30 p.m. Reservations are needed for this production. Reservations and additional information may be obtained by calling 444-8398.

Plants not recommended for human consumption include apricot kernels, pokeweed and water hemlock.

MOVING — Karner Inc., a branch plant of Economy Furniture in Austin, will soon be moving out of the 70,000 square foot building on south Church Street in Georgetown, which is owned by Wallace Giddings. Economy's five-year lease on the building will be up this summer and plans are to move the facility into a vacancy in the Economy Furniture complex in Austin. All the Georgetown employees of the company have been offered their same jobs at the Austin facility.

LEADING the 1976 campaign were W. Grogan Lord of Georgetown and Houston, general chairman; Mrs. Edwin Allday of Houston, vice chairman; M. Lamar Muse of Dallas, alumni chairman; Wayne Hightower of Houston, major gifts chairman; John M. Robinson of Houston, special gifts; Mrs. Mary Owen Greenwood of Houston, president of the President's Council; and Vernon Sheffield of Houston, corporation solicitation chairman.

Heading this year's campaign will be Roy Cullen of Houston, general chairman; Carroll Baird of Dallas, vice chairman; Lamar Muse of Dallas, alumni chairman;

Grogan Lord, major gifts chairman; and A. Frank Smith, Jr., chairman of the Board of Trustees. Other leaders will be named later, President Fleming said.

"THE BROWN CHALLENGE" is centered on the power of incentive awards. Southwestern University is motivated highly and we are working diligently toward meeting the 1977 goal of $650,000. We expect to reach it before December 31," President Fleming said.

The Brown Challenge calls for an increased effort in giving each year for the next nine years with the objective of broadening Southwestern's base of support, thereby making the University more self reliant.
